THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Text of Prince Gortschakoff's Reply to Earl Granville—No Objection to a Conference if Great Britain Pleases.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 2.—The following is the reply of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF to the note of Earl GRANVILLE. It is addressed to the Russian Minister in London, and dated at the Palace of Thorskoe, Nov. 29:

MONSIEUR LE BARON: The Ambassador of England has read and left with me a copy of Lord GRANVILLE'S reply to our communication of the 19th of October, which I submitted to His Majesty the Emperor. Our august master was pleased to point out that it contained, in the first place, an expression of the earnest desire of the Cabinet of London to preserve the cordial relations between England and Russia; and, secondly, an assurance that the English Cabinet would not have refused to enter into an examination of the results of the Treaty of 1856, so far as they had been modified by circumstances.

As for the question of strict right stated by Lord GRANVILLE, we have no wish to enter into any discussion, to recall any precedent, or to cite any example. Such a controversy would in no way promote the good understanding which we desire. Our august master had to discharge an imperious duty to his own country, without wishing to injure in any way the Governments which were signatories of the Treaty of 1856. On the contrary, His Imperial Majesty appeals to their sense of justice and to their regard for their own dignity.

We regret to see that Earl GRANVILLE addresses himself principally to the form of our communication. The form was not our choice. We could have asked nothing better, surely, than to attain our end by an agreement with the signatories of the Treaty of 1856; but the principal Secretaries of State of Her Britannic Majesty well know that the attempts made at different times to assemble the Powers in a general conference, with a view to remove the causes of difficulty which disturb the general peace, have invariably failed.

The prolongation of the present crisis, and the absence of a regular Government in France, postpone still further the possibility of such an agreement. Meanwhile, the position in which the treaty left Russia has become more and more intolerable. Earl GRANVILLE will agree that the Europe of today is very far from being the Europe which signed the Treaty of 1856. It is impossible that Russia should agree to remain the only Power bound indefinitely to an arrangement which, onerous as it was at the time when it was concluded, became daily weaker in its guarantees. Our august master has too deep a sense of what he owes to his country to force it to submit any longer to an obligation against which the national sentiment protests. We cannot admit that the abrogation of a purely theoretical principle, not followed by its immediate application, and which visibly restores to Russia a right of which no great Power could consent to be deprived, ought to be considered as a menace to peace, nor that, in avoiding one point of the Treaty of 1856, the abrogation of all is implied. The Imperial Cabinet never had any such intention. On the contrary, our communication of Oct. 19 declared, in the most explicit terms, that His Majesty, the Emperor, maintains his adhesion to the general principles of the Treaty of 1856, and that he is ready to come to an agreement with the signatory Powers of that treaty, either to confirm its general stipulations or to renew them, or to substitute for them any other equitable arrangement which may be thought suitable to secure the repose of the East and the equilibrium of Europe.

There seems, then, to be no reason why the Cabinet of London should not, if it please, enter into an explanation with the signatories of the Treaty of 1856. For our part, we are ready in any deliberation having for its object the settlement of guarantees for the consolidation of peace in the East.

We are persuaded that fresh guarantees would be found in the removal of a permanent cause of irritation existing between the two Powers which are the most directly interested. Their mutual relations would be more firmly established on the basis of a good and solid understanding.

You are desired, Monsieur le Baron, to read this dispatch and leave a copy of it with him.

The principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty has expressed to us the regret that he would feel if this discussion should disturb the harmony which the Government of her Majesty the Queen has striven to maintain between the two countries. Be good enough to express to his Excellency how entirely this regret would be shared by the Imperial Cabinet. We believe that friendship between the two Governments essentially useful to the two countries, as well as to the peace of the world. It is with lively satisfaction that we have seen this friendship during late years grow more and more close and cordial. The grave circumstances in which we find ourselves at this moment seem to us to make it more desirable than ever. (Signed,) GORTSCHAKOFF.

Participation of France in the Proposed Conference.

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The Neue Freie Presse this morning has an editorial on the Black Sea difficulty, wherein it says that France will participate in the deliberations of the conference to be held at London. Vienna was at first selected as the place for holding the conference, but Austria objected. The preliminary discussions will involve questions other than those connected with the Paris Treaty of 1856.

TOURS, Dec. 2.—The members of the Government here have referred to their colleagues in Paris the English note, asking France to take part in the conference on the Eastern question.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—It is asserted that at the conference which has been called for the settlement of the Eastern question, a new treaty will be proposed, omitting all reference to the neutralization of the Black Sea.

THE WAR IN FRANCE.

French Reports of the Recent Operations at Paris—Trochu and De Paladines Said to Have Formed a Junction—The Fighting During the Sorties.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A special dispatch to the London Times from Tours, dated Dec. 1, says: "The Army of the Loire has effected a junction with Gen. TROCHU'S forces from Paris. The Germans under Prince FREDERICK CHARLES are retiring before the united armies. It is said TROCHU has with him outside the walls, 150,000 men and 300 cannon."

THE TOURS MONITEUR'S STORY.

TOURS, Dec. 2.—The Moniteur of this city has the following details:

"On the morning of the 29th ult. the first sortie of the French garrison at Paris was begun at Choisy le Roi, L'Hay and Chevilly. The battle in that neighborhood lasted all the night of the 29th and till the next night. Gen. DUCROT then crossed the Marne, and occupied Messaly. Subsequently he evacuated that point, and engaged the enemy at Champigny, fighting his way to Brie. He then marched back to the Marne, recrossed that river by eight pontoon bridges, and maintained his position on the bank. He took two guns from the Prussians. He has since taken position at Thernay."

GAMBETTA'S ACCOUNTS.

LAVAL, Dec. 2.—The city is overjoyed with the dispatches from M. GAMBETTA, announcing the great successes at Paris, where sorties were made in force, defeating the Prussians along the entire line. The line of battle was many miles in extent. A great number of prisoners and cannon have been captured by the French. The corps were commanded by Gens. TROCHU, DUCROT, and VINNOY. M. GAMBETTA, in announcing the victory, says that one of the results of it has been the evacuation of Amiens by the Prussians, who hastily started for Paris to reinforce the German Army. The battles at Paris began on Tuesday, the 29th, and at the last accounts the garrison remained outside in the positions they had captured from the Prussians.

TOURS, Dec. 1—Evening.—The city is intensely excited. In response to the shouts of the people, M. GAMBETTA appeared, and praised Gens. TROCHU and DUCROT for their successful sortie. He also reiterated the statement that the French victory had compelled the hasty evacuation of Amiens, and that the Germans from that point were hastening to the assistance of the besieging army.

Prussian Reports—The French Sorties all Repulsed Ultimately—King William's Dispatch—Reports of Corps Generals.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A dispatch from Prince GEORGE, of Saxony, has been received by the King of Saxony. It describes the fighting at Noisy and Villiers, in which the Saxon troops took part, and states that the French were repulsed, and driven over the heights between the two villages, leaving behind hundreds of prisoners. The French attacking force numbered 50,000. The loss of the Saxons was twelve officers and one hundred privates. The King of Wurtemberg has sent a dispatch to Gen. OBERWITZ congratulating him on the gallantry displayed by the Wurtemberg troops. Later accounts increase the loss of the Wurtembergers.

KING WILLIAM'S DISPATCH.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—King WILLIAM sends by telegraph the following dispatch to Queen AUGUSTA, dated at Versailles on the 30th:

The Sixth Corps yesterday repulsed a sortie of the French near L'Hay, on the south of Paris. Over one hundred French prisoners were taken, and several hundred dead and wounded were left on the field. The French also made sorties on the positions of the Wertembergers and Saxons at Bonnneil, Champigny and Villiers, to the east and south, east of Paris. The positions were taken by the French, but subsequently retaken by the Prussians. At the same time sorties were made at the north and west, and at St. Denis, against the Fourth Corps and the Guard. The French were repulsed and driven back behind their works in all cases. I remained at Versailles, as it was central point. WILHELM.

GENERAL OBERWITZ'S REPORT.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—A telegram from Gen. OBERWITZ to the War Department here, has the following particulars of the part taken by the Wurtembergers in the late actions around Paris. The telegram is dated at Chateau le Pipes on Wednesday: On that day the Second and Third Wurtemberg Brigades, with the Seventh Prussian Brigade, defeated a sortie of the French, made in the direction of Mont Mesali. After five hour's fighting, the Germans took 300 prisoners. The German loss was as follows: Six officers killed and 34 wounded, and 700 rank and file killed and wounded.

GEN. TUMPLING'S REPORT.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The following dispatch from Gen. DE TUMPLING, the commander of the Seventh Prussian Corps, has just been received here, dated Thursday: A great sortie occurred yesterday. The French moved out against the Prussians and Wurtembergers early in the morning. They were supported by the heavy cannonade of their forts. Gens. TROCHU and DUCROT commanded, leading 120,000 men. At 11 o'clock in the forenoon, the French were repulsed by the Sixth Corps, and retired. Subsequently, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the Wurtembergers, who had been reinforced by cavalry and artillery, were attacked by the French. The latter were again defeated. The German losses were trifling.

THE FRENCH ASK A TRUCE.

VERSAILLES, Dec. 1, via BERLIN and LONDON, Dec. 2.—The French loss in killed, wounded and prisoners in yesterday's sortie is severe. They have just asked a truce for several hours to bury their dead. The Wurtembergers lost forty officers and 800 men. DATCOSSAL'T, Brigade of the Second Corps lost two officers and 700 men. The Saxon loss is unreported. All is quiet today before Paris.

OTHER REPORTS.

The Standard today has war dispatches down to 3 o'clock this morning. A Berlin correspondent telegraphs that, according to dispatches from Prussian officers, the French were repulsed in their attempt at a great sortie from Paris on Thursday. The French organ here, however, claims that the engagement before Paris ended in a brilliant victory for the French arms. There are no signs of weakness at Tours. Eleven new entrenched camps are forming throughout France. The Times thinks the policy of the Germans in changing position indicates important new movements, which, though yet undeveloped, are likely to bring about great results.

Dispatches from Paris, dated Nov. 30, say operations by the French commenced yesterday at different points around the city. Gen. DUCROT, with a large force, moved out of Paris and occupied Montrielis, which, however, he was soon compelled to evacuate. The heaviest of the fighting was done at Champigny, Brie and Villers-sur-Marne. The French are now renewing the attack in the South.

The Army of the Loire—Reports from Tours—What Gambetta Says—The German Position Dec. 1—What the German Generals Say.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Later and more important dispatches have been received from Tours relative to the movements of the Army of the Loire. The movement of the army began on Wednesday, and was directed by the Minister of War. The first operations were favorable. Gen. CHANZY left his position the next day, and found the Prussians entrenched at Gullonville, Ferminiers and Gomers. He immediately gave them battle, which was only ended with the night. The Prussians were compelled to retire, and the positions held by them were captured by the French, where they encamped that night. The French artillery was well handled. The German loss was heavy, and the French loss very light.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY GAMBETTA.

LAVAL, Dec. 2.—M. GAMBETTA has publicly announced that the Army of the Loire has successfully resisted an attack on the left and right wings, and is now moving forward. GAMBETTA continues: "Victory now favors the French. Te Deums are being chanted here." (Tours.)

GEN. CHANZY'S REPORT.

TOURS, Dec. 2.—GEN. CHANZY reports a successful advance of the French left yesterday. The French carried the first Prussian line, and afterward their positions at Neuneville, Villepain and Faverolles. The Prussians retreated on Loigny and Chatean Cambray.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—French successes at Patay, in the Department of Loiret, are claimed, but they are not yet confirmed.

PRUSSIAN POSITION ON THE 1ST.

TOURS, Dec. 1, midnight.—The Army of the Loire has been engaged with the Prussians today, The position of the latter extended from Chateaudun, where their right was posted, through Joinville to Toury, and from there to Pithiviers and Beaune la Rolande. Their second line in the rear extended from Fontainebleau by the way of Montereau and Villeneuve to Troyes, where it joined the first Prussian line.

THE OTHER SIDE.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Times this morning has a special dispatch from Berlin, dated yesterday, to the following effect: Nearly the whole of the French forces are now concentrated between Blois and Tours. If defeated, their retreat upon Lyons is probable. Lyons is a strongly-fortified city, and well provisioned.

MUNICH, Dec. 2.—A dispatch has just been received here announcing that Gen. VON DER TANN defeated the French Army of the Loire on the 1st inst., in several successive battles west of Orleans and Tours.

Amiens not Evacuated by the Germans—Reported Successes of Garibaldi—War Excitement in London.

LILLE, Nov. 1.—The Prussians have entered Albert, in the Department of Somme, eighteen miles north-east of Amiens. The evacuation of Amiens by the Germans, under Gen. MANTEUFFEL, is denied.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—It is reported that Gen. GARIBALDI has had great successes at Autun. Nothing official, however, has been received.... There is much excitement here and throughout England over the war news received from France.

The German War Loans—German Aid for Strasbourg—Breach of Parole by French Officers—Clerical Opposition to the Prussians and the Result—A French Town Burned.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The Börsenzeitung of yesterday says the proposal to consolidate the issues of the new loan has been accepted....The Prussian Government has sent the Strasbourg Savings Bank 1,000,000 thalers in aid of the poor of the city.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Prussian Cross Gazette attributes the frequent breaches of parole by French officers to the machinations of the French Government....The Times this morning has a special telegram from Berlin, dated yesterday, giving the state of affairs in the interior of France. The priests in the rural districts, prompted by DUPANLOUP, are preaching against the Prussians as heretics. The rustics are consequently terribly incensed against the invaders. German patrols in the valley of the Loire are shot down from every hedge and building. The Prussian bearers of dispatches are killed when nobody but innocent looking plowmen are in sight. Many of these priests have been captured by the Prussians, who will be brought to trial....The Prussians have burned the town of Charleville, because the Franc-Tireurs of the place fired upon them as they approached. The Germans are still in force at Boulonieourt. [Charleville had a population of about 10,000, a college, an ecclesiastical school, a library of 22,000 volumes, and a theatre. It is separated from Mésières by the Meuse, which is crossed by a suspension bridge.]

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Irish Municipal Elections—Disturbances in Various Cities—Sympathy with the Pope—The Steam-ship Union—German Unity—The Austrian Cabinet—Roumania—The Vomito Disappearing in Spain.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Municipal elections occurred in several of the cities of Ireland, yesterday. In some cases they were attended by disorder, but the general precautions taken by the Government prevented any serious outbreak. At Cork the election passed off quietly, though some trouble was apprehended. JOHN DALY was elected Mayor unanimously. There was a riot at Limerick as well as other disorderly proceedings. Alderman MCDONALD was elected Mayor....The demonstration at Dublin, yesterday, for sympathizing with the Pope, was well supported by members of Parliament and other influential persons....The passengers' baggage and a portion of the cargo of the steam-ship Union have been saved....The Oxford eight have sent the usual challenge to the Cambridge Club for the annual boat-race.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The Federal Council has ratified the convention providing for the union of the Kingdom of Bavaria with the Confederation. The Bavarian Diet will meet on the 10th inst., to take action on the treaty.

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The Free Presse of this morning announces the first resignation from the Cabinet. Baron KUHN VON KUHNENFELD, Minister of War, has tendered his resignation, which has been accepted. Marshal EDELSHEIM GYULI has already been appointed as his successor.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 2.—PALAGNIO has been chosen President of the Senate, and COSTAFONI President of the Deputies. A commission has been appointed to prepare an address to the throne.

MADRID, Dec. 2.—The vomito has entirely disappeared from Valencia, Alicante and Barcelona.

Billiards—The $2,000 Match—Garnier will Play Rudolphe and Daly.

It has been agreed upon to play the match for $1,000 a side between CYRILLE DION and A. P. RUPOLPHE, at the Academy of Music, on the 27th inst.

The subjoined communication from M. ALBERT GARNIER may possibly lead to two interesting matches:

NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1870.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

SIR: The challenge of Mr. RUDOLPHE, in which he offers to play me for $600 a side at the odds of fifteen per cent., I to name the table, is herewith accepted, the game to be the national one of France, 500 points up, with 2¼ balls, on a 5 by 10 carrom table, the make to be the same as that which Mr. RUDOLPHE is using for his matches with Messrs. PARKER and DION, viz., a PHELAN & COLLENDER. Noticing that Mr. MAURICE DALY professes to accept my challenge to Messrs. HUMPHREY and KAVANAGH, I desire to say, that while I named the three-ball game, Mr. DALY has proposed "the regular American four-ball carrom game, push and jaw barred, for $600 a side." "Push" and "jaw" are incomprehensible words to me, and I know comparatively little about the American game, not even its rules. If Mr. DALY wishes to play me, I will make a match on the same terms as are addressed above to Mr. RUDOLPHE, except as to odds, and with the further exception, that as I prefer one make of table and Mr. DALY another, I will toss for choice. I shall be happy to meet Messrs. RUDOLPHE and DALY on the afternoon of the 3d inst., between 3 and 4 o'clock, at the rooms of Mr. NEIL BRYANT, to arrange preliminaries. A. GARNIER.

Regarding the championship match, PARKER'S representative Yesterday received instructions to make no further efforts toward adjusting differences, but to adhere strictly to the rules.

Personal.

Bishop MCILVAINE, of Ohio, arrived on the 30th ult., in the steam-ship City of Brussels, in restored health.

The death of Mr. ABRAHAM HOOLEY, Sr., one of the old New-York merchants, is recorded. Mr. HOOLEY was born in England, and came over to this country in early life. He has been in the silk business for many years. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Church. He was in his seventy-fifth year.

ALMOST A RIOT.

An Effort to Nullify an Agreement with the Morris and Essex Railroad Company—Trains Delayed all Day—Thousands of Passengers Disappointed—Action of the Governor of New-Jersey—A Compromise Effected—Fisk Consequently Much Dejected.

Another epoch in the checkered history of the unfortunate Erie Railway occurred yesterday. Since the terrible slaughter at Carr's Rock, where the sleeping passengers of a midnight train were plunged into horrible suffering and death, and the more recent holocaust of Mast Hope, where human beings were maimed, crushed, and slowly roasted alive, there has not been such a degree of public excitement and indignation.

For some time past there have been various troubles in litigation between the Erie and the Morris and Essex Railroad Companies in regard to the right of way through the Bergen tunnel. The latter party claim that when the former were building the tunnel, years ago, and could not meet their payments, the late Mr. EDWIN A. STEVENS loaned the Erie Railroad Company $116,500 in consideration of which he obtained the right of way for trains, during a certain number of years. This right was assigned to the Morris and Essex corporation, then of limited proportions, but now very powerful and extensive, embracing several branches, including the new one to Boston, and the Delaware and Lackawanna division. The number of their trains has been very largely increased, and, as the Erie authorities allege, cause most of the detention and annoyance experienced in passing through the tunnel, without paying an equivalent toward the expenses. The Erie broad gauge and the Morris and Essex narrow, have both been in use from the river front to the western end of the tunnel at the junction. The latter Company have intended to connect their Boston branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad with the third rail through the tunnel, forming the wide gauge track of the Erie Railway, but the Erie officers have always opposed it. Yesterday morning, at about 9 o'clock, some seventy laborers of the Morris and Essex Road arrived at the junction, provided with the necessary tools, and prepared to place a new, large, double frog in position. Their movements were quickly begun, but the telegraph operator in the adjacent round-house promptly dispatched a message to Erie head-quarters, and in about five minutes' time Superintendent BERTHOUD, Detective WILLIAMS and others, came up on an engine, and resisted the track-layers. Neither party proceeded to blows, but they struggled together—the one to prevent, and the other to accomplish the purpose. An Erie locomotive was rushed upon the frog and moved to and fro, to interfere with the track-men's attempts, whereupon they seized a number of broken rails, blocked the wheels, and raised the tender by levers, until the frog was securely spiked to the ties. Several of the blows of the hammers struck the feet of the Erie contestants during the scuffle, but no serious damage was done. Telegraphic orders to all the Erie stations in the vicinity commanded the employes to rally to the spot, and in less than an hour about 1,000 had arrived. The other party were also reinforced to the number of 500. These seemed to be disciplined, and during the day manifested an obedience to their superiors that was in strong contrast with the disorder of the Police Department, which had been summoned en masse, and although a clever body of men, were imperfectly managed by the chief. The approach to the tunnel was crowded with a heterogeneous multitude of employes, passengers, Police, sheriffs and idlers, whom the Captains could not, with their best intentions, separate, without proper concert of action from their commands. The consequence was that at intervals the noise, jostling, confusion and excitement very nearly precipitated a general riot, which would undoubtedly have been of a sanguinary character, as the crowd were well armed with iron bars, hammers and other tools. At 10 o'clock news of the affair had circulated all over the adjoining cities and towns, and a constant stream of people, on foot and by horse-cars and carriages, poured toward the spot; and at noon their numbers had increased to about 4,000. Every hour also brought additional gangs of railroad men to either side, until the track-bed, from the black mouth of the tunnel to the junction, was one mass of humanity, and the lofty bridge and the sloping hill-sides, 100 feet above, were swarming with spectators. Long lines of trains stretched out as far as the eye could reach, over the meadows; the Morris and Essex, and Lackawanna, to the left; the Erie in the centre, and the Northern New-Jersey to the right. Great numbers of passengers—men, women and children—were obliged to get out of the cars in this most barren, desolate and bleak portion of New-Jersey, and clamber over the network of tracks, up the hills, and down the rough roads, nearly three miles, to the ferry. The Erie Company made no provision, by stages or otherwise, to transport them, and the hardship to women, children and infirm persons was pitiable in the extreme. At noon, while the Police were guarding the track, and immediately under their eyes, a most successful rush was made by a picked band of Erie men, who dexterously wrenched out the spikes, threw the frog of contention into the ditch, and escaped before the astounded Police could make any arrests. The Morris and Essex employes replaced it, but were not allowed to drive in any spikes.

At another time the Erie men again made a dash, secured their own displaced rail from the ditch, where it had been thrown, and rushed through the crowd with shouts and cries, which were responded to by the thousands around and above, until the echoes were wild with the roar. Bloodshed now seemed unavoidable. The train-hands and engine-men seized sticks of wood, hammers, wrenches and bolts; and the laborers grasped shovels, picks and bars, which were brandished in the air with vociferous threats. The Police struggled to beat the surging crowd back, and finally succeeded. The rail was again cast into the ditch. But two arrests were made. During this scene several exciting dialogues occurred between Superintendent SCHOCH, of the Morris and Essex, and RUCKER, of the Erie. The Chief of Police was not visible, and the Captains were left to do their best—seemingly without instructions—and they did well under the circumstances, which were perplexing.

By a compromise between the two Superintendents it was arranged that a certain number of trains should be allowed to proceed in the order of their arrival. Four Erie trains, with some thirty cars, were passed, and some Morris and Essex trains were about to follow, when Mr. RUCKER prevented it. Similar breaches of faith on the Erie side are alleged by Mr. SCHOCH to have occurred during the day. Angry altercations also took place on this point between the parties. Couriers and telegrams were sent constantly, but no settlement seemed probable. At about noon, JAMES FISK, Jr., with some female companions, was observed in the vicinity, apparently enjoying the pecadoes, but subsequently returned to the Grand Opera-house without effecting any change in the situation. Later in the afternoon, the burly form of the opera bouffe, and Erie proprietor in brass-bauston decorations, vaulted from the high stone wall at the roadside down to the track-level below. He was followed by a staff of imitators, and all mingled in the crowd. Mr. FISK, surrounded by his satellites, approached Mr. SCHOCH, with characteristic bluster and attitude, and demanded that the frog should be removed. The latter courteously but firmly refused. This demand and refusal were repeated. A number of confabs ensued between the Erie Colonel and his aids, but nothing was accomplished until about 5 o'clock, when Gov. RANDOLPH arrived, and was immediately buttonholed by Mr. FISK, who argued his case volubly, but with no apparent effect. It was now dark, and the dense mass of people in the vicinity were getting quite demonstrative. The headlights of scores of engines mingled their glare with the misty moonlight, and made up a strange and unnatural effect. The switches were doubly guarded from an apprehended attack, and a line of sentinels was formed about the offending frog.

A council of all the parties interested was then held in the round-house. There were present JAMES FISK, Jr., Superintendents RUCKER and BERTHOUD, of the Erie Railway; Superintendent SCHOCH, of the Morris and Essex; Mr. SAMUEL SLOAN and Counselor J. VANETTA, of the Delaware and Lackawanna; Mr. SHIPPEN, of the Edwin A. Stevens estate; Gov. RANDOLPH and others.

After several loud demands from Mr. FISK upon Mr. SCHOCH for the removal of the frog, all of which were mildly but firmly refused, the Governor was appealed to and said:

"No, Mr. FISK, there can be no going back to where things were. The starting point must be from the present situation. The frog cannot be removed. You must have the matter arbitrated in the Courts. This affair has already lasted too long. I cannot allow this avenue to be obstructed and the public so inconvenienced. I have made arrangements for military force to take possession and clear these impediments if they are not removed by you before midnight. It must be done!"

Subsequently an agreement was made to leave the track just as it was, allowing all trains to pass, and referring the quarrel to the Courts. The frog was then nailed down in the presence of the principal actors, and the thousands of spectators, and the trains moved on amid the cheers of the people, the ringing of bells, and shrieking of whistles. Mr. FISK, with attendants, left the scene with a most glum and crest-fallen appearance. Two regiments were under orders last night, and a posse of Sheriffs guarded the tunnel and its approaches. During the day the ferry and depot wore a most deserted look. In the afternoon and evening the wildest excitement existed among the thousands of commuters and passengers, who were unable to get home until a very late hour in the night, and they denounced the Erie management most unsparingly. The Morris and Essex trains were dispatched from the New-Jersey Central Depot over the Newark track. A number of the commuters declared their determination to remove their residences from the Erie line. A large number of Westward-bound passengers were sadly inconvenienced.

Had not the compromise been effected it was arranged by the United States authorities to arrest the party responsible for a wanton detention of the mails. The pecuniary damage of this affair to all parties would not be covered by $10,000. The Governor has intimated that in case of any more symptons of a quarrel he will instantly seize the tunnel in the name of the Commonwealth of New-Jersey.

A Tartar Insurrection in Mongolia—Twenty Thousand Insurgents Threatening the Capital.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A dispatch just received here from Shanghai, dated Nov. 8, says a Tartar insurrection had occurred in Mongolia. Twenty thousand insurgents were threatening the town of Oorga, the capital city of the province. A force armed with Russian rifles had gone to oppose the movement. [Mongolia is embraced in the Chinese Empire, and is bounded on the east by Manchooria, from which it is separated by a wooden palisade, on the south and south-west by China and Chinese Turkistan, and on the north the Khin-gan and other mountain chains separate it from Irkutsk, a province of Russian Siberia. The area is 1,400,000 square miles, mostly a vast desert, and the population is about 2,000,000. The people are governed by chiefs, who pay tribute to the Chinese Emperor, but it is said, receive presents from him of much greater value than the tribute exacted.]

Resignation of De Rodas Accepted by Spain—Valmaseda Temporarily in Command—The Tehuantepec Expedition.

HAVANA, Dec. 2.—The Home Government, yesterday, accepted the resignation of Capt.-Gen. DE RODAS, which had been repeatedly tendered. Gen. DE RODAS will sail for Spain about the 20th of the present month, Gen. VALMASEDA taking his place temporarily. No successor has yet been appointed, and it is not known here who will be sent out from Spain....The United States Exploring Expedition has arrived at Tehuantepec.

A Fight in the Mexican Congress—One of the Belligerents Seriously Injured.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 20, via HAVANA, Dec. 2.—During a discussion on the Zona libre on the 14th, a fight took place. OBREGON, a member from Tamaulipas, was talking to the Minister of War, when VELASCO, a member from Matamoras, walked up and struck OBREGON with a lead-headed cane. The latter grasped the assailant round the waist and threw him on the floor, tearing out his beard by the roots, and foiling his attempt to use a revolver which he had in his hand.

Lottery of the San Francisco Mercantile Library Association—Ruin—The Lost Steamers—Desperate Attempt of Convicts to Escape.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The net proceeds of the Mercantile Library Lottery are $310,122. ....The rainy season has commenced, and the anxieties concerning the crops of the coming season throughout the State are dispelled....A party will leave here to-morrow to wreck the three steamers sunk in the vicinity of Cape St. Lucas....The inmates of the Nevada State Prison made a desperate attempt to escape yesterday. Five of them got outside of the main door, and attacked the guard. The guard shot one prisoner dead and mortally wounded two others; another was shot through the chest. The fifth was captured after a desperate struggle.

A Judicial Decision Against the San Francisco Mercantile Library Lottery—Loss of a Ship Apprehended—Death of Another of the Nevada Convicts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Judge STANLEY, of the County Court, this evening decided that the Mercantile Library act was unconstitutional, and consequently did not repeal the Anti-Lottery law. He announced that he would hold for trial all parties in any way assisting in the lottery scheme.....The ship Prima Donna, from New York, reports having seen fresh bales of wool floating at sea, Oct. 10, in latitude 57 south, longitude 79. It is feared that the ship Cremone, from this port for Liverpool, Oct. 1, is lost.....Another of the prisoners who attempted to break from the Nevada State Prison died to-day.

ANOTHER OIL FIRE.

Destruction of Tanks, Stills, Pumps and Other Property—The Fire Still Burning.

TITUSVILLE, Penn., Dec. 2.—About 9 o'clock this evening a large fire broke out at Messrs. CHAMBERS & PICKERING'S refinery. One large iron tank, three wooden tanks, stills, treating house, and a large pump, were entirely destroyed. The tanks containing benzine and tar quickly ignited, bursting with a loud report. The contents, completely covering the creek, floated downward in a burning stream. The fire communicated to two small benzine tanks, about three rods up the creek, owned by Messrs. MORELAND & Co., but the efforts of the employes saved the refinery, &c. There was but a small amount of oil consumed. The firemen are upon the ground and working with a will, playing upon the large tanks in the vicinity.

Fire at Merrow Station, Conn.—Drowned—Conviction of Manslaughter.

NORWICH, Conn., Dec. 2.—The stockinet factory of MERROW & MELLARD, at Merrow Station, in the town of Mansfield, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $40,000; insured for $23,500 in Worcester, Providence, New-York, Middletown and this city. The origin of the fire is unknown. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 2.—A sail-boat capsized in a pond near Valley Falls this afternoon, causing the death of JOSEPH W. JOHNSON....In the Supreme Court this afternoon CHARLES E. KENT was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for killing J. B. WHITING in Pawtucket last July.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S INCOME TAX.

The Income From Mormon Church Property Decided to be Taxable—Brigham Young's Pleas Overruled.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—In December, 1869, JOHN P. TAGGART, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Territory of Utah, assessed BRIGHAM YOUNG as trustee for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, an income tax of $39,589, to which he added a penalty of $19,779 50. Mr. YOUNG appealed from the assessment, asking to have it abated as erroneous, making two points against it in giving the Mormon view of the case, first, that the trust fund was raised by tithing, and was a voluntary offering, and consequently not taxable as income. The next point was that if it was taxable they had been relieved by the act of July 14, 1870, giving exemption to every five persons living in religious communities holding property in common. The point of voluntary offering was decided against BRIGHAM YOUNG as trustee, because of the fact that punishments such as excommunication and otherwise are meted to those who refuse to pay tithing, which deprives said offerings of all voluntary character.

On the second point, in which they claimed to come within the law exempting common property, it was shown by the Government that the property was not held in common, as required by the terms of the law, which says: "The property from which the income arises, and the income, shall be held jointly and in common."

The matter has been pending in the Internal Revenue Bureau for very nearly one year, and today was decided by Acting Commissioner DOUGLASS, in favor of the Government as to the tax, but relieving YOUNG from the penalty. Instructions will be sent to Collector HALLISTER in Utan to collect the tax at once.

lieve, would be a foolish nation not to think of raising up some secure boundary-fence between herself and such a neighbor now that she has the chance.

TERRITORIAL REDUCTION.

There is no law of nature that I know of, no Heaven's act of Parliament, whereby France, alone of terrestrial beings, shall not restore any portion of her plundered goods when the owners they were wrenched from have an opportunity upon them. To nobody, except to France herself for the moment, can it be credible that there is such a law of nature. Alsace and Lorraine were not got, either of them, in so divine a manner as to render that a probability. The cunning of RICHELIEU, the grandiose long sword of LOUIS XIV., these are the only titles of France to those German countries. RICHELIEU screwed them loose, (and, by happy accident, there was a TURENNE, as General, got screwed along with them;—TURENNE, I think, was mainly German by blood and temper, had not FRANCIS I. eaged on his ancestor, the little Duke of BOUILLON, in the way we saw, and gradually made him French;) LOUIS le Grand, with his TURENNE as supreme of modern Generals, managed the rest of the operation, except, indeed, I should say, the burning of the Palatinate, from Heidelberg Palace steadily downward, into black ruin, which TURENNE would not do sufficiently, and which LOUIS had to get done by another. There was also a good deal of extortionate law-practice, what we may fairly call violently sharp attorneyism, put in use. The great LOUIS' "Chambres de Réunion," Metz Chamber, Brisach Chamber, were once of high infamy, and much complained of, here in England, and everywhere else beyond the Rhine. The grand LOUIS, except by sublime gesture, ironically polite, made no answer. He styled himself on his very coins, (ecu of 1687, say the medalists,) Excelsus super omnes Gentes Dominus, but it is certain attorneyism of the worst sort was one of his instruments in this conquest of Alsace. Say, as we may say, it was not even attorneyism, much less a long-sword, that did the feat; it was a house-breaker's jemmy on the part of the Grand Monarque. Strasbourg was got in time of profound peace by bribing of the Magistrates to do treason, on his part, and admit his garrison one night. Nor as to Metz la Pucelle, nor any of these Three Bishoprics, was it force of war that brought them over to France; rather it was force of fraudulent pawnbroking. King HENRI II. (year 1552) got these places—Protestants, applying to him in their extreme need—as we may say, in way of pledge. HENRI entered there with banners spread and drums beating, "solely in defense of German liberty, as God shall witness;" did nothing for Protestantism or German liberty, (German liberty managing rapidly to help itself in this instance;) and then, like a brazen-faced, unjust pawnbroker, refused to give the places back—had ancient rights over them, extremely inalienable to him, and could not give them back. And never yet, by any pressure or persuasion, would. The great CHARLES V., Protestantism itself now supporting, endeavored, with his utmost energy and to the very cracking of his heart, to compel him, but could not. The present Hohenzollern King, a modest and pacific man in comparison, could and has. I believe it to be perfectly just, rational, and wise that Germany should take these countries home with her from her unexampled campaign, and, by well fortifying her own old Wasgau, ("Vosges,") Hundsrück, (Dog's-back,) Three Bishoprics, and other military strengths, secure herself in time coming against French visits.

FRANCE'S DISHONOR.

The French complain dreadfully of threatened "loss of honor;" and lamentable bystanders plead earnestly, "Don't dishonor France; leave poor France's honor bright." But will it save the honor of France to refuse paying for the glass she has voluntarily broken in her neighbor's window? That attack upon the window was her dishonor. Signally disgraceful to any nation was her late assault on Germany; equally signal has been the igoominy of its execution on the part of France. The honor of France can be saved only by the deep repentance of France, and by the serious determination never to do so again—to do the reverse of so forever henceforth. In that way may the honor of France again gradually brighten to the height of its old splendor, far beyond the First Napoleonic, much more the Third, or any recent sort, and offer again to our voluntary love and grateful estimation all the fine and graceful qualities nature has implanted in the French. For the present, I must say, France looks more and more delirious, miserable, blamable, pitiable, and even by contemptible. She refuses to see the facts that are lying palpable before her face, and the penalties she has brought upon herself. A France scattered into anarchic ruin, without recognizable head; head, or chief, indistinguishable from feet, or rabble: Ministers flying up in balloons—ballasted with nothing but outrageous public lies, proclamations of victories that were creatures of the fancy; a Government subsisting altogether on mendacity, willing that horrid bloodshed should continue and increase rather than that they, beautiful republican creatures, should cease to have the guidance of it: I know not when or where there was seen a nation so covering itself with dishonor. If, among this multitude of sympathetic bystanders, France have any true friend, his advice to France would be,—To abandon all that, and never to resume it more. France really ought to know that "refuges of lies" were long ago discovered to lead down only to the gates of death eternal, and to be forbidden to all creatures!—that the one hope for France is to recognize the facts which have come to be, and that they came withal by invitation of her own; how he—a mass of gilded, proudly-varnished anarchy—has willfully insulted and defied to mortal duel a neighbor not anarchic, but still in a quietly human, sober and governed state, and has prospered accordingly. Prospered as an array of sanguinary mountebanks versus a Macedonian phalanx must needs do;—and now lies smitten down into hideous wreck and impotence, testifying to gods and men what extent of rottenness, anarchy and hidden vileness lay in her. That the inexorable fact is, she has left herself without resource or power of resisting the victorious Germans; and that her wisdom will be to take that fact into her astonished mind; to know that, howsoever hateful, said fact is inexorable, and will have to be complied with—the sooner at the cheaper rate. It is a hard lesson to vainglorious France; but France, we hope, has still in it veracity and probity enough to accept fact as an evidently adamantine entity, which will not brook resistance without penalty, and is unalterable by the very gods.

A NATION'S MENDACITY.

The quantity of conscious mendacity that France, official and other, has perpetrated latterly, especially since July last, is something wonderful and fearful. And, alas, perhaps even that is small compared to the self-delusion and unconscious mendacity long prevalent among the French; which is of still fuller and more poisonous quality, though unrecognized for poison. To me, at times, the mournfullest symptom in France is the figure its "men of genius," its highest literary speakers, who should be prophets and seers to it, make at present, and, indeed, for a generation back have been writing. It is evidently their belief that new celestial wisdom is radiating out of France upon all the other overshadowed nations; that France is the new Mount Zion of the universe; and that all this sad, sordid, semi-delirious, and, in good part, infernal stuff which French literature has been preaching to us for the last fifty years is a veritable new Gospel out of heaven, pregnant with blessedness for all the sons of men. Alas, can it understand that France made her great revolution; uttered her tremendous doom's voice against a world of human shams, proclaiming, as with the great Last Trumpet, that shams should be no more. I often call that a celestial-infernal phenomenon—the most memorable in our world for a thousand years; on the whole, a transcendent revolt against the devil and his works (since shams are all and sundry of the devil, and poisonous and unendurable to man.) For that we all infinitely love and honor France. And truly all nations are now busy enough copying France in regard to that! From side to side of the civilized world there is, in a manner, nothing noticeable but the whole world in deep and dismally chaotic insurrection against shams, determination to have done with shams coûte qu'il coûte. Indispensable that battle, however ugly. Well done, we may say to all that; for it is the preliminary to everything; but, alas, all that is not yet victory; it is but half the battle, and the much easier half. The infinitely harder half, which is the equally or the still more indispensable, is that of achieving, instead of the abolished shams which were of the devil, the practicable realities which should be veritable and of God. The first half of the battle, I rejoice to see, is now safe, can now never cease except in victory; but the further stage, I also see, must be under better presidency than that of France, or it will forever prove impossible. The German race, not the Gaelic, are now to be protagonist in that immense world-drama; and from them I expect better issues. Worse we cannot well have. France, with a dead-lift effort, now of eighty-one years, has accomplished under this head, for herself or for the world, nothing, or even less—in strict arithmetic, zero with minus quantities. Her prophets prophesy a vain thing; her people rove in darkness and have wandered far astray.

RESOURCE OF THE PRESENT.

Such prophets and such a people—who in the way of deception and self-deception have carried it far! "Given up to strong delusion," as the Scripture says; till at last the lie seems to them the very truth. And now, in their strangling crisis and extreme need, they appear to have no resource but self-deception still, and quasi-heroic gasconade. They do believe it to be heroic. They believe that they are the "Christ of Nations;" an innocent god-like people, suffering for the sins of all nations, with an eye to redeem us all; let us hope that this of the "Christ of Nations" is the non plus ultra of the thing. I wish they would inquire whether there might not be a "Cartouche of Nations," fully as likely as a "Christ of Nations" in our time! CARTOUCHE had many gallant qualities, was much admired, and much pitied in his sufferings, and had many fine ladies begging locks of his hair while the inexorable, indispensable gibbet was preparing. But in the end there was no salvation for CARTOUCHE. Better he should obey the heavy-handed Teutsch Police officer, who has him by the wind-pipe in such frightful manner; give up part of his stolen goods, altogether cease to be a Cartouche, and try to become again a Chevalier Bayard under improved conditions, and a blessing and beautiful benefit to all his neighbors, instead of too much the reverse, as now! Clear it is, at any rate, singular as it may seem to France, all Europe does not come to the rescue, in gratitude for the heavenly "illumination" it is getting from France! Not so said all Europe, if it did, at this moment prevent that awful Chancellor from having his own way. Metz and the boundary-fence, I reckon, will be dreadfully hard to get out of that Chancellor's hands again.

ENGLAND IN THE PAST.

A hundred years ago there was in England the liveliest desire, and at one time an actual effort and hope, to recover Alsace and Lorraine from the French. Lord CARTERET, called afterward Lord GRANVILLE, (no ancestor, in any sense, of his now honorable synonym,) thought by some to be, with the one exception of Lord CHATHAM, the wisest Foreign Secretary we ever had, and especially the "one Secretary that ever spoke German or understood German matters at all," had set his heart on this very object, and had fair prospects of achieving it, had not our poor dear Duke of NEWCASTLE suddenly peddled him out of it, and even out of office altogether, into sullen disgust (and too much of wine withal, says WALPOLE,) and into total oblivion by his nation, which, except CHATHAM, has none such to remember. That BISMARCK, and Germany along with him, should now at this propitious juncture make a like demand, is no surprise to me. After such provocation, and after such a victory, the resolution does seem rational, just, and even modest. And considering all that has occurred since that memorable cataclysm at Sedan, I could reckon it creditable to the sense and moderation of Count BISMARCK that he stands steadily by this; demanding nothing more, resolute to take nothing less, and advancing with a slow calmness toward it by the eligiblest roads. The "Siege of Paris," which looks like the hugest and most hideous farce-tragedy ever played under this sun, BISMARCK evidently hopes will never need to come to uttermost bombardment, to million-fold death by hunger, or the kindling of Paris and its carpentries and asphalt streets by shells and red-hot balls into a sea of fire. Diligent, day by day, seem those Prussians, never resting nor too much hasting; well-knowthe proverb, "Slow fire makes sweet malt." I believe BISMARCK will get his Alsace and what he wants of Lorraine; and likewise that it will do him, and us, and all the world, and even France itself by and by, a great deal of good. Anarchic France gets her first stern lesson there, (a terribly drastic dose of physic to sick France!) and well will it be for her if she can learn her lesson honestly. If she cannot, she will get another, and even another; learnt the lesson must be.

HERR VON BISMARCK.

Considerable misconception as to Herr VON BISMARCK is still prevalent in England. The English newspapers, nearly all of them, seem to me to be only trending toward a true knowledge of BISMARCK, but not yet got to it. The standing likeness, circulating everywhere ten years ago, of demented BISMARCK and his ditto King to STRAFFORD and CHARLES I. versus our Long Parliament (as like as Macedon to Monmouth, and not liker) has now vanished from the earth, no whisper of it ever to be heard more. That pathetic Niobe of Denmark, reft violently of her children, (which were stolen children, and were dreadfully ill-nursed by Niobe Denmark,) is also nearly gone, and will go altogether so soon as knowledge of the matter is had. BISMARCK, as I read him, is not a person of "Napoleonic" ideas, but of ideas quite superior to Napoleonic; shows no invincible "lust of territory," nor is tormented with "vulgar ambition," &c., but has aims far beyond that sphere, and in fact, seems to me to be striving with strong faculty, by patient, grand and successful steps, toward an object beneficial to Germans and to all other men. That noble, patient, deep, pious, and solid Germany should be at length welded into a nation and become Queen of the Continent, instead of vaporing, vain-glorious, gesticulating, quarrelsome, restless and oversensitive France, seems to me the hopefullest public fact that has occurred in my time.

I remain, Sir, yours truly, T. CARLYLE.
CHELSEA, Nov. 11.

RUSSIA AND EUROPE.

Mr. Mill on the Treaty of 1856.

Mr. JOHN STUART MILL writes thus to the editor of the London Times: Without wishing, at least for the present, to discuss the character of the declaration just made by the Russian Government—a discussion which would raise questions, both moral and political, more intricate and difficult than people seem to be aware of—may I hope from your impartiality that you will allow expression to be given through your columns to the reasonable fear of at least one Englishman, which he believes to be shared by multitudes of his countrymen, that for England to let herself be drawn into war by this provocation or on this account would be nothing less than monstrous.

This is not the doctrine of a partisan of peace at any price. Had we, at the first breaking out of the present hateful war, declared that whichever nation first invaded the territory of the other should have England also for its foe, we should, at an extremely small risk to ourselves, in all human probability, have prevented the war, and perhaps given commencement to a new era in the settlement of international differences. To effect this great good to humanity and to public morals, we did not choose to incur a mere chance of being involved in war, and in my opinion we were wrong, and have exposed ourselves to the just recriminations of the suffering people—I do not speak of the Governments—of Germany and France. Were we now to plunge into a war infinitely more dangerous to ourselves, and for which we are materially speaking totally unprepared, those among us who are the causes of our so doing will, in my judgment, deserve and receive the execration of the people of England.

The honor of England is not concerned either in the protection of Turkey or the humiliation of Russia. Treaties are not made to be eternal, and before we go to war for the maintenance of one, it behooves the nation, at least, to consider whether it would enter into it afresh at the present day. We should have learned little, indeed, from the spectacle that has been going on before our eyes during the last four months if we allow our journalists to hurry us into a war under the plea of honor, merely because of the manner or the form in which Russia has thought fit to throw off an obligation the substance of which, we all admit, we ought to be ready to reconsider.

I am, &c., J. S. MILL.

Views of Mr. J. A. Froude.

Mr. FROUDE writes: With the threat hanging over us of a second war with Russia, every one, however insignificant, is entitled to say what he thinks to arrest so frightful a calamity. How frightful such a war would be is as yet inadequately realized. The Alabama question remains unsettled. In the present state of feeling in the United States, there is not the slightest doubt that privateers under the Russian flag will be fitted out in American harbors. The Government at Washington would be unable to prevent it if they wished, and war with America will be the immediate consequence.

I do not defend Prince GORTSCHAKOFF's note. The manner of it is so studiously offensive that it looks as if Russia had calculated the chances, and desired either publicly to humiliate us or to provoke a collision. Great nations, however, have no right to appeal to the ordeal of battle for a fault of manner, and the offense as yet has proceeded no further.

Is it too late to reconsider the entire attitude which we have assumed toward Russia? I was one of those who deplored the Crimean war itself as a mistake, if it was nothing worse. Russia and England are the two great individualizing Powers in the East. Our mission is the same, to carry order and peace among races who are incapable of governing themselves. I believed that the overtures of the Emperor NICHOLAS to Sir HAMILTON SEYMOUR ought to have been met in a less jealous spirit; that England should rather have accepted Russia's hand, and have preferred conciliation and co-operation to distrust and hostility.

Even now in our present difficulty would not a change of front be possible without undue sacrifice of dignity? So far the present war has been localized, and we have taken credit to ourselves for preventing the spread of it. Surely we ought to hesitate before we give the signal, in resentment at an affront to ourselves, for a struggle which will envelop the world, and inflict misery on the entire human race which the wildest imagination would probably under-estimate.

Your obedient servant, J. A. FROUDE.

Brilliant Jewish Wedding on Staten Island.

One of the most brilliant weddings held on Staten Island for many years was that of Miss DEBORAH WEINER and Mr. BERNHARD NATHAN, which took place a few days ago. The bride is daughter of a Mr. MARTIN WEINER, of Tompkinsville, and the bridegroom is a connection of the WEINER family, and an extensive merchant in San Francisco, Cal. The Pavilion Hotel, which had been closed for the season, was engaged for the occasion, and from an early hour in the afternoon till late the next morning its parlors were thronged by ladies and gentlemen well known in New-York, Brooklyn and the island itself, with a few guests from "over the Plains." A special steamer, chartered for the purpose, brought down, about 3 o'clock, a number of the invited from New-York and Brooklyn, and very soon after the marriage ceremony commenced.

The canopy usual on such occasions was opened in the grand hall of the hotel, and beneath it Rev. Dr. ISAACS, of the synagogue, performed the ceremony in a manner which commanded the respect of all present, especially when, after the breaking of the glass, he said: "When those particles are reunited may you be separated." TWYFORD'S band then played, in very good arrangement, MENDELSSOHN'S "Wedding March," and this ended the ceremony.

After a short delay an adjournment was ordered to the dining-room of the hotel, where a splendid banquet was prepared, and done justice to by those who sat at the table, and who were in numbers at least 200. Mr. HINCHMAN, Metropolitan Agent of the Associated Press, presided, and did his duties in an admirable manner—in making a good dinner for himself, and proposing the toasts usual in such occasions. At his right sat Gen. EBERHART, of the Western Union Telegraph Company; on the left, Mr. W. O. LEWIS, agent of the Associated Press. Among the other guests were H. W. JOHNSON, Counsel to the Quarantine Commissioners; Capt. JONES, of the Post-office; and lady; WM. C. DECKYRE, Police Commissioner, and lady; Dr. J. C. CARNOCHAN and lady; Capt. O'KORKE, of Lower Quarantine, and lady; Mr. J. HOLLAND, of the Telegraph Department; Dr. FRYE, of Brooklyn, and lady; Dr. KENNETH REID; Mr. LEWIS, of Vanderbilt Landing; Mr. MARTIN WEINER and lady, parents of the bride; L. LEVY, DAVID and GABRIEL JACOBS, and a numerous array of friends from the Cities of New-York and Brooklyn. County Coroner DEMPSEY attended to the carriage department, and preserved excellent order among the Johns. At 9 o'clock dancing commenced, and was continued until an early hour, when those who lived on the island placed themselves under DEMPSEY'S charge, and those hailing from Manhattan Island and the City of Churches were provided by Mr. WEINER with a special steamer, that landed some at the Battery and others at Twelfth-street. The bride and bridegroom left early for the Metropolitan Hotel, New-York, and by "5 o'clock in the morning" the Pavilion was deserted, and one of the most pleasant occasions on Staten Island was over.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Opinion of Our City Government in London—Sympathy with the Efforts for Reform.

From the Economist, Nov. 19.

If we may trust the statements of two or three American journals, and notably of the NEW-YORK TIMES, an effort is being made to reform the Government of that City, which deserves the attention of English politicians. The administration of that great community—an administration extending far beyond what we in England understand by municipal power—is, as most of our readers know, singularly and exceptionally bad. Though elected nominally by manhood suffrage, the Government of New-York has fallen practically into the hands of a knot of politicians and gamblers, by no means numerous, who tax and administer it at their own discretion, and for their own advantage. That is not a phenomenon without precedent in Europe, where minute cliques have repeatedly controlled the action and wasted the resources of great States; but in Europe these cliques have always offered their dupes certain returns. Either they granted "liberty" in some unusual form, as the "Fazy" clique did in Geneva: or they secured honor and respect abroad, as the Bonapartists professed to do in France; or they obtained security for property, as the "regular" absolutisms usually do everywhere; or they gave in the great region outside politics cheap and lenient government, as the Neapolitan Bourbons certainly did. The strange fact about New-York is that the City Government, which seems so firmly fixed upon its shoulders, though perfectly despotic—that is, independent of the citizens' will—does not apparently secure any of these things. It is not cheap but dear. The taxation represented in some semi-official pamphlets as rising to the incredible height of 28 per head per annum, is undoubtedly excessively heavy, and for it the citizens receive little or no return. The ordinary municipal work—paving, lighting, sweeping, &c.—is very badly done, is a subject of constant complaint, and is never seriously defended; while the work of defending those who have against those who have not, is not done at all. Thieves and swindlers pass unpunished by connivance of the Judges. No honor whatever is secured for the City by its municipal administration; on the contrary foreigners point to it as the grand proof that democracy always becomes corrupt, and Americans never defend it except by saying that its governing Democracy is foreign, and not American, while most of them denounce the City as the "cesspool of the Union." As to security, there is less of it than in any city of the Union, except, perhaps, Chicago. Murders are crimes against property so lightly punished as to be rife. Burglary, theft, and even murder, are incessant; while swindling, if practiced on a large scale, is protected by the Courts, encouraged by the Legislature, and winked at by the greater portion of the Press. A notorious swindler, of the very worst possible character in every other respect, virtually governs New-York, and though decent citizens will not associate with him, citizens politically of at least one English man

NINTH WARD NUISANCES.

Plaster Factories and Oyster-Shell Kilns Breeding Disease and Death—The Sanitary Commission Hunting Them Up.

Yesterday the Sanitary Commission made a tour among the oyster lime-burners and calcine plaster factories of the west side of the City. Complaints, numerous and pressing, have been made against those places by residents in their neighborhood, and by various pretexts and promises of amendment in the conduct of their business, they have been allowed to continue from month to month and year to year. But from present appearances, the only improvement that can be made permanent is the radical one to drive them from the midst of such populous districts altogether.

The first place visited, yesterday, was G. ISAAC'S plaster manufactory, No. 31 to 25 Bethune-street. To appreciate the nuisance we must understand something of the character of the business. Tons of gypsum, from mines and quarries in Nova Scotia, are annually imported, sent to these factories, dried, ground, mixed with other mineral or chemical compounds and made into calcined plaster and barreled, and then sent out all over the country for various purposes. The refuse is used for agricultural purposes. In the grinding process a thin, almost invisible dust is created, which, for the greater protection of the persons engaged in the manufacture, is permitted to escape through windows and doors and every other avenue that it can find. It is consequently wafted hither and thither with every breeze, and enters the windows and doors of every house within a quarter or half mile of it on any side. The rear walls of some of the tenements and private houses, around which were noticed, had a coating of this dust, one-eighth or one-quarter of an inch thick, and the Health Inspectors for the district report that the hottest days in Summer the people have to keep the back windows of their houses closed to escape the lung-destroying and furniture-marring nuisance. The factory of KING BROTHERS, on the corner of West and Horatio streets, appeared to be less offensive, probably because the building is more substantial than the other. Still it is next to impossible for a person long to breathe this dust and remain healthy.

WOTHERSPOON BROTHERS' factory, No. 428 West Thirteenth-street, runs along the rear of four five-story tenement houses, and is entered through an archway in the midst of them. They make no sanitary defence of their place, but on the ground of their large business in which they have $130,000 invested, they have applied for a permit to continue under a promise that if proper time is allowed they will remove to some less offensive neighborhood. They have been established forty-odd years, but the nuisance was just as great here as elsewhere, and the owners of the tenements are obliged to reduce their rents very greatly to obtain occupants for their places at all. And these poor people risk their lives for the sake of saving a few dollars a month in rent. On the opposite side of the street stands FERGUSON'S laundry, which has also been indicted by the Board of Health as a nuisance, not because of any smells arising therefrom, but because of the sparks emanating from low chimneys, and which have burned and disfigured, more or less, every blind and shutter of the tenement-houses in front. They keep the tenants continually alive to danger; still they have apparently no means of averting it. When the sparks do not burn them the smoke blinds them; and between the two they have a pretty hard time to live. The owner or lessee of the tenements and of the foundry have been repeatedly notified to remedy this condition of things, and they say they have tried, but if so, they evidently will have to try again.

The only oyster lime-burning kilns on the west side of town are those of P. MALONE, at No. 393 West Twelfth-street. The smell was painfully discernible yesterday at Jane and Bleecker streets. Six beds of shells are kept continually burning, day and night, Sundays and week days the same. As every oyster-dealer knows, and every one who has seen oysters opened must be aware, there are hundreds of bad oysters that are thrown, fresh and all, into the heaps, and what with the decomposition by the sun and by the fires, this animal or fish matter adds not its intolerable odor throughout the vicinity. Every tenement around that was noticed by the Commission yesterday had its windows tightly fastened, and according to the Inspectors they are and must be always closed to escape at all. These facts will be reported to the Board of Health at its next meeting, and an order to quit at a specified time will probably be made. There is no other resource left.

Kings County Board of Supervisors—How the People's Money is Spent.

The Kings County Board of Supervisors held a meeting, yesterday afternoon, and resolved, after much debate, upon the reception of the report of the Committee appointed to investigate the Lowber insurance job, to have the policies on the county buildings stand in the Companies that now hold them. The report, while it exonerated Mr. LOWBER, the insurance agent of the county, from anything like personal motives in desiring to make the transfer, took ground against the making of any change at the present time.

The Finance Committee presented certain small bills, in all amounting to about $3,000, for the approval of the Board, which was given. Before doing so, however, Supervisor HARMAN took the floor and denounced the bills presented as fraudulent, and asked to have them referred to the Law Committee for investigation. That motion, however, was lost. The following few figures, taken from the bills in question, will give some idea of how the money of the county is spent:

9 dozen brooms, $9 per dozen	$81 00
271 pairs of blankets	1,916 25
2 gross of matches	27 00
25 dozen scrubbing-brushes	124 00
15 pieces of sheeting	171 30
14 pieces of calico	149 00
24 dozen tin cups	72 00
24 dozen tin pans	141 60
14 dozen white-wash brushes	210 90

Mr. HARMAN asserted that the broom could be purchased for $27, the blankets for $825, the ticking for $18, the matches for $12, the scrubbing-brushes for $56, and so on to the end of the list. It is only necessary to add that the Supervisor was laughed at for his pains, and the bills rushed through. The Board then adjourned.

Freight and Passenger Rates on Rival Railroad Lines Proposed to be Made Uniform.

For two days past the Presidents of the leading railroads have been in secret session at the St. Nicholas Hotel, for the purpose of agreeing, if possible, upon uniform rates between rival lines, on passenger and freight traffic. Among those present were the following representatives of the trunk lines: THOMAS A. SCOTT, of the Pennsylvania Central; JAY GOULD, of the Erie; Commodore VANDERBILT, of the New York Central; J. T. JOY, of the Burlington & Quincy Railroad; A. BOODY, Toledo, Wabash & Western Railroad; H. T. CLARK, of the Lake Shore line; J. N. MCCULLOGH, of the Fort Wayne and Chicago; and OSCAR TOWNSEND, of the Cleveland and Columbus. No decision has as yet been arrived at, so the deliberations will be resumed to-day.

The Sequel to a Target Excursion—Arrest of a Barber who Received a Counterfeit $20 Bill as a Prize.

Commissioner SHIELDS heard testimony, yesterday, in the case of PHILIP CARRELL, a young barber, charged with passing a counterfeit $20 bill on ELIAS MORRIS, of No. 496 Canal-street, in payment for a pea-jacket, worth $8. At the time of his arrest, on being asked where he got the spurious money, he said that it was given to him by "his boss," in West-street; but he subsequently asserted that he received it at a liquor-store. When brought before the Commissioner he announced that he drew it as a prize at a target excursion. JAMES BANG, a witness for the defense, testified that the accused was a member of a target company, and that he attended an excursion which was held a short time ago. The drawing for prizes took place at a liquor-saloon, the numbers being contained in envelopes. One envelope contained an order for a ton of coal, and another for a cord of wood. The one which CARRELL selected was found to be an order for $20. The inference was that the bill which the prisoner drew was the identical one which he expended for clothing. It did not appear that he had ever been guilty of a similar offense, and he was accordingly discharged with a sharp reprimand.

A Cartman Testifies Against a Bankrupt Merchant.

The examination in the case of AUGUSTUS W. MARSH, a merchant, formerly of the firm of LOCKWOOD & MARSH, hoop-skirt manufacturers, was resumed before Commissioner SHIELDS, yesterday, for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was probable cause to hold him for the Grand Jury on a charge of fraudulent bankruptcy. It was alleged that he had defrauded two of his creditors out of a large quantity of crinoline wire after he had become bankrupt. MICHAEL HOGAN, a cartman, of No. 42 Pitt-street, testified that he delivered four loads of covered wire to LOCKWOOD & MARSH, in March, 1869, for the firm of BENJAMIN & DOREMUS. The further hearing in the case was then adjourned.

Desperate Assault on a Prisoner at Jefferson Market Prison.

Early yesterday morning PATRICK FLYNN and JOHN MCKAY, with several others, were committed at the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, before Judge SHANDLEY, for disorderly conduct. Shortly afterward an altercation took place between them, when a furious assault was made on FLYNN by all the others, and he was injured severely. In the struggle, MCKAY struck him in the eye with his boot, breaking in the temple. MCKAY was committed on the charge, without bail.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Etna Insurance Company vs. Wm. Heryford.—Error to the Circuit Court for the District of Missouri.—This was an action on a policy issued on the dwelling of the defendant in error, situated in Clinton County, Mo. The policy, under date of February, 1864, was in the ordinary form, and contained the following exceptions: "That the Company shall not be liable to make good any loss or damage by fire which may happen or take place by means of any invasion, insurrection, riot or civil commotion, or any military or usurped power." The house was burned in November of that year, under the following circumstances, as shown by the evidence. In the evening of the day prior to that upon which the house was burned, a squad of about thirty-five Federal soldiers went to the house, which, in the absence of Heryford's family, was in charge of his colored servants. The troops remained there during the night, and were provisioned by the servants. During the night, some few of the soldiers threatened to burn the house, but the lieutenant in command assured the servants that no harm should be done. The squad departed in the morning, but soon after they left two soldiers in Federal uniforms rode up, and having fired the house left; but the evidence leaves it uncertain whether they belonged to the squad which had been quartered there during the night. Under this state of facts the Company refused to pay, claiming that the fire was in consequence of causes within the exceptions of the policy. The Court, however, charged the jury that if the house was burned by a few soldiers, not acting as an organized force, but through their own private wantonness, malice or revenge, and without any orders or authority from any official to whose command they belonged or if a few soldiers having left their military company or organized force, for the purpose of firing the house through private wantonness, malice or revenge, did so fire the same without any order or authority from any officer in command, then the firing was an act of private incendiarism, and not within the exceptions of the policy. The verdict was for the plaintiff below, and the Company bring the case here claiming error in the charge of the Court, and insisting that their exceptions in the policy exempt them from payment of the loss, as the fire was caused by military.

The case was argued and submitted on printed briefs.

The United States Supreme Court today gave a decision on the motion for an injunction and supersedeas to stay proceedings in the State Courts of Louisiana in the New Orleans slaughter-house cases, five in number. It may be remembered that the plaintiffs in error in the several causes undertook to establish a landing for cattle and a slaughter-house in New-Orleans, contrary to an act of the Legislature, which gave exclusive privileges to the New-Orleans Live Stock Landing and Slaughter-house Company, and that the Attorney-General of the State obtained an injunction against them which was subsequently made perpetual, and the order continuing it was affirmed afterward by the Supreme Court of the State. The writs of error were then sued out, and the plaintiffs in error being advised, they were thereby set free from the injunction order of the State Court and proceeded in their business in disregard of it. Meanwhile the Legislature created an additional Court, called the Eighth District Court, giving it the exclusive jurisdiction over injunction causes, and ordering such causes pending in other Courts to be transferred to it. Accordingly, the slaughter-house causes were transferred, and judgment was given against the plaintiffs in error, who did not appear from it, but sought to have this Court prohibit the local officers of the State from obeying it. Mr. Justice CLIFFORD delivered the opinion of the Court, holding that, as a writ of error does not lie to the Court the proceedings in which are sought to be stayed, the relief cannot be granted. The writ is to the Supreme Court of the State, which Court has not attempted any proceedings in violation of it. If it had the relief asked would be granted. But the proceedings complained of in the Eighth District Court, which is an inferior Court, and to which the writ does not lie, and the motion, therefore, for the injunction and supersedeas must be denied. Mr. Justice BRADLEY dissented, taking the view that the power existed in this Court to protect the persons who may ask it, and that the judgment of the Court surrendered an authority necessary to its jurisdiction and the control of causes pending final judgment. The decision leaves the Company established by the Legislature, triumphant for the present, and until after a decision on the merits of the cause.

COURT OF APPEALS.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 2.—The following is the Court of Appeals day calendar for Monday, Dec. 5: Nos. 21, 18, 67, 65, 66, 69, 13, 71, 72, 73.

SUPREME COURT.

Before Judge Brady.

Annie M. Shields vs. Thomas H. Shields; judgment of divorce granted.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—FOR DECEMBER.

This Court will, on Monday next, the 5th inst., be held by Judge BARNARD, commencing at 10½ o'clock. The following cases are set down for trial at that time: The Erie Railway Company vs. Ramsey et al.; Ramsey vs. The Erie Railway Company, and The Erie Railway Company vs. Vanderbilt. On Tuesday, the 6th inst., Judge BRADY will commence the regular Term at 11 A. M., and will call all the demurrers on the calendar, from one to twenty-four, inclusive.

COMMON PLEAS—GENERAL TERM—DEC. 2.

INTERESTING QUESTION OF PRACTICE.

Henry Gleb vs. John C. Blanke, et al.—This action was brought to recover damages against defendants for injuries sustained by reason of an attachment granted against the property of plaintiff, consisting of a milk-cart, &c., but subsequently set aside for irregularity and the absence of proper grounds. The action is founded on the customary bond given on the issuing of the attachment by the defendant and his co-bondsman. A suit had been previously commenced against this defendant individually, arising out of the same circumstances, and charging malicious prosecution. On the trial of this cause counsel for defendant moved that the complaint be dismissed on the ground that a suit was already pending in the Superior Court, founded on the same subject matter. This motion was denied, and from that judgment this appeal is taken. It appearing upon the record that the suit in the Superior Court was for malicious prosecution, and could not be sustained on the facts when it came to trial, it was held that this action was properly brought.

Judgment affirmed.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.—DEC. 2.

Before Judge Loew.

REGULARITY OF DISCHARGE IN BANKRUPTCY.

Mechanics' Banking Association vs. Robert Usher.—This is an action in equity to declare a discharge in bankruptcy void for irregularity in the proceedings taken to obtain it. In 1865 the plaintiff obtained judgment against the defendant for the sum of $2,000. Subsequent to the entry of such judgment, the defendant obtained his discharge in bankruptcy under the Two-thirds act, which he now sets up in bar of the enforcement of the judgment against him. Some of the irregularities urged on behalf of plaintiff as invalidating the discharge, was that some of the affidavits used had no venue. This, it was claimed on behalf of defendant, did not affect the validity of the discharge, and it was further claimed, that even if it did, the discharge could not be attacked in an action of this collateral character, but that it must be done by way of certiorari.

Decision reserved.

To State of Massachusetts for War Claim of 1812.

The European news today, through the French Cable, was generally construed on the Street as against the Germans before Paris, although by no means universally believed as authentic in its details. Until the Atlantic Cable is repaired and put in good working order, our markets are likely to be annoyed by imperfect or partisan advices from the siege of Paris. The Cables this forenoon advanced the sales of Gold to 110⅞@111 ₱ cent., and at the same time the Foreign Exchanges were firmer than yesterday, selling at 108½ for 60-days London, and 109⅝@109⅞ per cent. for short sight. The improved demand for Exchange, however, probably originated in the lower Gold market of yesterday, which induced some of the Importers to remit, and had very little to do with the War bulletins of this morning.

Money was in more active inquiry from the Brokers, near the close of Bank hours, and the prevailing rate on call 6 ₱ cent.

The Public Funds were not moved by the French news. The market was dull and business light, the 5-20s of 1867, 109⅜ ₱ cent.

In the Railway market at the Stock Exchange, the feeling after 1 o'clock was bearish on most of the New-York and Western Roads, and sales were pressed in larger amounts than yesterday. The Western Union Telegraph was an exception to the prevailing depression, and sold as high as 44⅛@44 ₱ cent. The recovery in Union Pacific Stock and Bonds, noticed yesterday, was fairly sustained, although the Stock was not quite so strong at the close of the Second Board. The Central Pacific Bonds were in demand at 91 ₱ cent., and there was also an active business in the First Mortgage of the Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central Road.

The following closing quotations were made, as compared with Thursday night:

We were mistaken the other day in referring to an early four ₱ cent. Half-yearly Dividend on New-York Central. It did not occur to us that the last Dividend was declared in October in place of July as heretofore. The next Dividend will, therefore, in due course be declared in April in place of January, unless the management should change to the Quarterly system, as sometimes suggested.

The late Cable news, this afternoon, throws great doubt upon French successes before Paris, and there is very little question that the bulletins of the morning were extravagantly colored. At the same time, the Gold Room seemed to take a different view of the situation, and sales were made at 111⅛ ₱ cent. after the latest London dispatches had been made public.

Two or three causes were rumored in the Long Room of the Exchange, late in the day, of the bearish turn in the New-York and Western Roads. 1. The conference of the trunk lines was disrupted. 2. The President is about to send a belligerent message to Congress on the Alabama question. 3. The Erie people are seriously disturbed about the row over the River with the Morris and Essex Road, and were selling Stocks upon this difficulty, as well as the rumored disagreement among the trunk lines. To all which it might be replied, without traversing these rumors, first, that if the recent agreement of the trunk Roads is not confirmed, New-York Central and Pennsylvania Stocks will be no worse than before the conference said to have fallen through. Secondly, that no one knows what the President will say about the Alabama claims, and no one believes that what he has to say will mean War. And lastly, that the Erie party, assuming their difficulties legal or otherwise, at the Bergen Tunnel, to be serious, may soon have employment enough to retain control of their own Road, without assuming to direct the general market.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

A special telegram to the London Times, dated Tours, Dec. 1, says that the Army of the Loire has effected a junction with Gen. TROCHU's forces from Paris, and that Prince FREDERICK CHARLES' Army is retiring before the united French Army. TROCHU's strength is said to be 150,000 men and 300 cannon. On the other hand dispatches from Prince GEORGE of Saxony, and other German sources, represent that the French sorties were repulsed at all points. The successes of the French are believed in Tours, where the people are much excited over them. M. GAMBETTA having made public addresses detailing them and lauding the gallantry of TROCHU and DUCROT. The excitement has extended to the English cities. GAMBETTA claims the evacuation of Amiens as the result of the assumed success at Paris, but the Germans deny that Amiens has been evacuated. King WILLIAM's telegram to Queen AUGUSTA says the Sixth Corps repulsed the sorties to the south of Paris, Nov. 29, while the sortie on the position of the Wurtemburgers and Saxons, to the south and east of Paris, was successful at first, but the positions were retaken by the Germans. At the same time sorties were made to the north and west, which were repulsed. The Tours Moniteur's account says that Gen. DUCROT fought through the day on the 29th, and then crossed the Marne, and fought his way to Brie. He then marched back to the Marne, recrossed that river and maintained his position on the bank. As to the movements of the Army of the Loire, the statements are conflicting; one asserting its junction with TROCHU, and another stating that the main portion is massed between Tours and Blois, fifty or sixty miles south of its original position north of the Loire. A German telegram says Gen. VON DER TANN defeated the Army of the Loire on the 1st inst., west of Orleans and Tours. †

The Prussians have burned the town of Charleville, because they were fired upon, as they approached, by Francs-Tireurs. A Berlin dispatch says the proposal to consolidate the issues of the new loan has been accepted. Advices from the interior of France represent the priests as inciting the people to resist the Prussians as heretics, and as consequence, it is said, Prussian patrols and dispatch bearers are shot down when none but innocent looking peasants are visible.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The reply of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF to Earl GRANVILLE was published on Thursday in St. Petersburg. The Russian Minister declines to discuss the question of propriety involved in his first note. He regrets that Earl GRANVILLE takes exception to his form of communication, and says the abrogation of the entire treaty was not contemplated. The peace of the world required that treaty. Russia, however, is willing to enter into a conference of the Powers. A St. Petersburg dispatch says a pacific solution is assured. The Vienna News Freie Presse says France will participate in a conference to be held at London. A dispatch from Tours, however, says that that branch of the Government has referred the matter to their colleagues in Paris. According to the Vienna journal above named, the preliminary discussions will involve other questions than those connected with the Treaty of 1856. A Berlin telegram says a new treaty will be proposed, omitting the question of the Black Sea neutrality.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The municipal elections in Ireland, on Thursday, were attended with scenes of disorder which, in Limerick, became riotous. A meeting in Dublin to express sympathy with the Pope, on Thursday, was attended by several members of Parliament and other influential persons. ....The passengers, baggage and part of the cargo of the steam-ship Union have been saved....The Oxford "eight" have challenged the Cambridge Club for the annual boat-race....The North German Federal Council has ratified the treaty uniting Bavaria. The Bavarian Diet meets on the 10th to act on the treaty. ....Baron KUHN VON KUHNENFELD, the Austrian Minister of War, has resigned. Marshal EDELSHEIM GYALI has been appointed his successor....The vomito has disappeared from Valencia, Alicante and Barcelona, in Spain.

CHINA.

On the 8th of November an insurrection had broken out in Mongolia, and 20,000 Tartars were threatening Oorga, the capital of the province. A Chinese force, armed with Russian rifles, has been sent to oppose the movement.

GENERAL.

The Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that the income from the Mormon church property, held by BRIGHAM YOUNG as trustee, is taxable; the points raised by Mr. YOUNG, that it consisted of voluntary contributions, and that it was held as common property by more than five persons, and therefore exempt, being overruled. The penalties of excommunication and other punishments for non-payment of tithes were held to destroy their character as voluntary contributions. The Collector of Internal Revenue in Utah has been directed to collect the tax at once, without the penalty which was added for non-payment.

The San Francisco Mercantile Library Association realized $310,122 from their lottery.

A desperate attempt to escape was made on the 1st inst. by the convicts in the Nevada State Prison. Five got beyond the main door and attacked the guard. One of them was shot dead, two mortally wounded, and another shot through the chest. The fifth was overpowered after a desperate struggle.

The President has appointed B. P. BLANCHARD Postmaster at New-Orleans in place of LOWELL, removed.

The funeral of State Senator BLOOD took place yesterday at Ballston. Two thousand persons were present, among them two hundred of the late Mr. BLOOD's workmen, as mourners.

The official returns received at the office of the Secretary of State at Albany show that HOFFMAN received 399,490 votes for Governor, and WOODFORD 366,428; BEACH, 399,053 for Lieutenant-Governor, and KAUFMAN 368,945.

Col. W. D. WASHINGTON, the painter of "The Burial of Zatanæ," and Professor of Fine Arts in the Virginia Military Institute, died at Lexington, Va., on Thursday night, of paralysis.

HENRY HARRIS, an aged colored man from Richmond, was found murdered, on Thursday night, on the railroad track at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs. BILL ROSS, a colored man of Salem, was arrested, and has confessed that he murdered the old man for his money. The negroes threaten to lynch the murderer.

All of the Baton Rouge (La.) riot prisoners have been discharged.

A convict named GEORGE WILLIAMSON escaped from Sing Sing Prison on Thursday night.

At a meeting of the Republican Ward and City Committee of Boston, last evening, Hon. GEORGE O. CARPENTER was nominated as the Republican candidate for Mayor at the coming election.

The Atlantic Cable authorities announce that, although there will be considerable delay, they can send slowly to Europe through the French Cable; therefore messages will be received and transmitted as early as possible and in the exact order of their reception.

English Public Opinion on the Russian Difficulty.

The tone of the most powerful of English journals serves to indicate the general drift of public opinion in Great Britain. The people are apparently deeply perplexed between two sentiments—the one that it would be very foolish to fight for the Turk any more, the other that it is time something should be done to maintain the "prestige" of England. They seem to have a deep conviction that England is somehow sinking very rapidly in the esteem of other nations, and that she cannot very well afford to put up with any further insults. The "stand-and-deliver" tone of GORTSCHAKOFF's first dispatch was something more than they felt they ought to submit to with patience, and if they tamely yielded to that there was no telling how soon they might be called upon to bear a greater humiliation. The thing asked by Russia was not so unpalatable as the way in which it was asked. Hence the people very soon made up their minds that it would be better to go to war at once than be "bullied" by Russia.

But this virtually meant going to war for Turkey, for as we have endeavored to make clear, England herself has no interest which is actually threatened by Russia. Now there are probably not a thousand men in all England who would vote for a fresh war in defense of what Mr. CARLYLE very justly calls the "torpid nuisance" of Europe. When it could once be made clear that Russia was not acting in concert with Prussia for the degradation of England, the feeling in favor of war would be sure to pass away. We know now that GORTSCHAKOFF's subsequent dispatches must have sufficed to settle this point; but when the last mail left England the subject was still in great doubt. Yet even then some eminent Englishmen were trying to calm the popular excitement. Mr. J. S. MILL wrote a letter in which he said: "The honor of England is not concerned either in the protection of Turkey, or in the humiliation of Russia. Treaties are not made to be eternal"—and so forth. Mr. FROUDE warned his country men against the "frightful consequences" of a war with Russia. He pointed out that privateers would soon be equipped in American ports in revenge for the Alabama wrong, and "war with America would be the immediate consequence." By this time the people of England must thoroughly appreciate the significance of the "Alabama claims."

There are circumstances, however, under which no nation can refuse to go to war, no matter how grave may be the risk incurred—and if the Russian demand had been pressed in its original form, the advice of Mr. MILL, and the remonstrances of Mr. FROUDE, would have been alike ineffectual. But Russia is not willing to go to war until it is proved that she cannot gain her object without it, and the proposed conference is not unlikely to convince her that an appeal to the sword will be superfluous. England is not called upon to fight single-handed for the maintenance of a treaty to which she was only one party. Moreover, the treaty itself is admitted to be harsh, and as GORTSCHAKOFF points out in his latest dispatch, the state of Europe is so different now from what it was in 1856, that a revision of the obnoxious document can be demanded with perfect propriety. In what way the dispute will be settled remains to be seen, but that the final result will be the establishment of a Russian Protectorate in Turkey, with most of the other concessions which she seeks, there can be very little doubt. By asking a little more at first than she was ready to take, Russia is likely to get the substance of what she wanted, and England will be glad to have escaped the necessity of fighting once more for the Ottoman Empire.

The Sorties From Paris and the Movements on the Loire.

In collating the somewhat contradictory array of war telegrams which we publish this morning, the fact must be steadily borne in mind that both sides keep silent about everything save their successes. In the present case, we may therefore give almost complete credence to the accounts furnished both from French and Prussian sources, and remembering simply the priority in point of time of most of the former, may find the combined narrative tolerably consistent after all. We have details, more or less complete, of two sorties by the garrison of Paris. The first, which was merely intended to divert the attention of the enemy from the more important attack that was to follow it, occurred on Tuesday, and was under the command of Gen. VINOY. The points threatened by this movement were the Prussian lines on the south of Paris immediately in front of Forts Bicetre and Ivry, and somewhat in advance of the hamlets of L'Hay and Chevilly. This was repulsed by the Sixth Prussian Corps under Gen. VON TUMPLING, evidently without much difficulty. Meanwhile, however, Gens. TROCHU and DUCROT were directing the advance of about 120,000 regular troops, who, under the fire of the south-eastern forts, were advancing upon the German positions on the south-east of Paris. To understand the details given of this movement, it is necessary to bear in mind the peculiar configuration of the River Marne at the point selected for attack, as well as the distribution of the Prussian positions in the same quarter. Starting, then, from the German position at Brie, a point about five miles beyond Castle Vincennes on the east of Paris, the Marne, before joining the Seine at Charenton, describes a curve in the form of a large S. While Brie representing the upper extremity of the letter, and Bonneuil representing the lower, are within safe distance of the fire of the outer forts, there are obviously points on the inner surface of the upper curve which are commanded by Vincennes and Charenton. On one side, then, we have a semicircle of forts, on the other a corresponding semicircle of intrenched positions, beginning with Mount Mesly, and including Chennevières, Champigny, Villiers and Brie. Between these the Marne describes its large S, measuring along the line of the curve about ten miles, and when bissected by a straight line from Brie to Mount Mesly, giving a distance of between five and six miles.

On Tuesday evening the troops led by Gen. DUCROT crossed the Marne, where the lower curve of the S slopes upward to join the Seine. The attention of the German troops having been occupied with the sortie under Gen. VINOY, five miles further west, Mount Mesly appears to have been taken without serious resistance. Early on Wednesday morning, however, the Sixth Prussian Corps threatened this position, and the French General, wheeling round to the north-east, directed the whole weight of his attack upon the Würtemberger and Saxon corps occupying the positions extending over the six miles that separate Bonneuil from Brie. The Germans intrenched in this quarter appear to have suffered severely, but succeeded in making a stand till the arrival of reinforcements prevented the enemy effecting a permanent breach in the German line. The French being still on the left or east bank of the Marne, and now immediately in front of the S curve, made one more effort on Wednesday afternoon to effect the purpose aimed at by the sortie. Toward nightfall the Germans appear to have received further reinforcements, and the French made good their retreat to the right or west bank of the Marne, protected once more by the guns of Vincennes and Charenton.

That this movement justifies the amount of exultation it has excited at Tours can hardly be admitted. That it shows a greatly-improved morale, and a much more soldierly handling than heretofore of the French troops, there can be no question. The sorties before Paris were evidently made in concert with the reported movements of the Army of the Loire. In the absence of anything like coherent details about the latter, we can only observe that, beginning on Wednesday, there seems to have been three days of somewhat desultory fighting between the German corps—occupying a line of upward of thirty miles in length, running nearly parallel with the course of the Loire about ten miles to the north of that river at Orleans,—and sections of the Army of the Loire. There is no evidence that the main body of Gen. DE PALLADINES' command was at any time engaged in these operations. Neither is there any evidence, save that of an unsupported statement from Tours, entirely at variance with the tenor of all previous dispatches, that any junction has been effected between Gens. TROCHU and DUCROT and the Army of the Loire. The chief portion of that army evidently awaits the attack of the enemy between Blois and Tours, a position a good deal further to the south and west than the last reported Prussian one. The conclusion we draw from the late sorties at Paris, and the partially coincident movements on the Loire, is that although they show very unmistakably that the French capacity for resistance is on the increase, they only demonstrate still more clearly that the chances of the troops inside of Paris breaking through the German environment, and of the Army of the Loire forming a junction with any part of the garrison, are equally dubious.

Mr. Carlyle on the War.

Most of the political wisdom now extant is to be found in the writings of THOMAS CARLYLE, and therefore any opinion which he expressed on the events of the hour would naturally be received with reverence. We know that in some of his opinions in past times he has been wrong—wrong to an extent which must have brought conviction to his own mind that his judgment had deceived him. But much may be forgiven to a man who has placed the whole world under undying obligations to him, and whose writings have done more to create a sound and healthy public sentiment than those of any other man, alive or dead. His present letter on the war between France and Germany will be a severe test to the patience of many of his disciples, but no intelligent being walking on two legs can afford to leave it unread. It will be found, unabridged, in another part of this paper.

Mr. CARLYLE's argument is that Germany does right to pursue France to the "bitter end," because France has in former times inflicted great wrongs upon Germany. If France is now compelled to make restitution, it only serves her right. "That noble, patient, deep, pious, and solid Germany should be at length welded into a nation, and become Queen of the Continent, instead of vaporing, vain-glorious, gesticulating, quarrelsome, restless, and over-sensitive France, seems to me the hopefulest public fact that has occurred in my time." These are the words of the great writer—and for France they are very bitter words. Mark, too, the pitiless and scornful manner in which he describes the present position of France: "A France scattered into anarchic ruin, without recognizable head; head, or chief, indistinguishable from feet, or rabble; Ministers flying up in balloons, ballasted with nothing but outrageous public lies, proclamations of victories that were creatures of the fancy; a Government subsisting altogether on mendacity, willing that horrid bloodshed should continue and increase rather than that they, beautiful Republican creatures, should cease to have the guidance of it: I know not when or where there was seen a nation so covering itself with dishonor." RHADAMANTHUS could administer justice in no sterner spirit.

Whether Mr. CARLYLE happens to have read Lord MACAULAY or not is more than we can say—though we should judge not, since there were too many fireworks about MACAULAY to suit the taste of the "sage of Chelsea." But there is a passage in MACAULAY's Essay on FREDERICK the Great which seems to us to dispose of the greater part of CARLYLE's argument, and it is that in which he condemns the pretext used by FREDERICK for the seizure of Silesia—the pretext, namely, that it originally belonged to Prussia. We are not aware that Lord MACAULAY's argument on this point has ever been quoted, and as it is very pertinent to more than one "European crisis" at this moment, our readers may find it convenient if we give it here:

"Is it not perfectly clear that, if antiquated claims are to be set up against recent treaties and long possession, the world can never wisely establish a time of limitation, after which titles, however illegitimate in their origin, cannot be questioned? It is felt by everybody, that to eject a person from his estate on the ground of some injustice committed in the time of the TUDORS would produce all the evils which result from arbitrary confiscation, and would make all property insecure. It concerns the commonwealth—so runs the legal maxim—that there be an end of litigation. And surely this maxim is at least equally applicable to the great commonwealth of States; for, in that Commonwealth, litigation means the devastation of provinces, the suspension of trade and industry, sieges like those of Badajos and St. Sebastian, pitched fields like those of Eylau and Borodino. We hold that the transfer of Norway and Denmark to Sweden was an unjustifiable proceeding; but would the King of Denmark be therefore justified in landing, without any new provocation, in Norway, and commencing military operations there? The King of Holland thinks, no doubt, that he was unjustly deprived of the Belgian provinces. Grant that it were so. Would he, therefore, be justified in marching with an army on Brussels?"

The long and short of it all is, that if treaties and definite settlements are not to last longer than suits the convenience of the parties chiefly concerned, the sword is not likely to answer the purpose of a plowshare, nor the spear to be beaten into a pruning-hook, while the present dispensation endures.

We have quoted MACAULAY against CARLYLE, because he supplies a really forcible answer; but, at the same time, no one will deny the truth of much that CARLYLE says. We are afraid, however, that he is a little in advance of mankind generally in his estimate of BISMARCK's character. We only hope that it may turn out that CARLYLE is right and mankind, minus CARLYLE, wrong.

Our Postal System.

The report of the Postmaster-General may not awaken the lively interest which attaches to some official documents, but it touches more directly than most the social as well as the business concerns of the people. With all its imperfections, the postal system of this country is one of the best illustrations of the care and efficiency with which urgent wants of the remotest communities are provided for, and the relations of widely separated sections are maintained. What the Department costs is in the popular mind a matter of less moment than the thoroughness of the service which it performs. The stoppage of that would be practical disunion, and any saving of expenditure consequent upon its imperfections would be scouted as a false and disastrous economy. It does not follow, however, that the question of expense is of no moment. A system that gave us the fullest possible postal facilities, regardless of profit or loss, would be hailed as a boon, in comparison with a slow, unsafe, and uncertain service. But better still is one that combines tolerable efficiency with a near approach to a balance of income and outlay. The Department seems to be gradually approaching this standard. It is yet susceptible of improvement, but the Postmaster-General shows that he is not blind to its imperfections, nor unobservant of the lessons suggested by other countries. And with all this, the Department promises soon to be self-sustaining. The difference between income and outgo decreases steadily. In the last fiscal year it was less than three millions.

The abolition of the franking privilege would, in the opinion of the Postmaster-General, equalise the accounts. "I am thoroughly satisfied," he tells us, "that if the franking privilege were repealed, and all matter passing through the mails charged with its fair share of postage, the Department would in a short time become self-sustaining." If the exercise of the privilege were fraught with substantial advantage to the people, it might be submitted to, costly as it is. But it has not this recommendation. The benefits are infinitesimal,—the abuses flagrant and inexcusable. It is a perquisite to Senators and Representatives,—not a gain to the people; and a perquisite, too, which in the majority of cases is applied to the most paltry uses. If the pay of our legislators is insufficient, let it be increased; but at all events let us not be required to contribute to their election expenses, or to put money into the pockets of schemers, by keeping up the franking privilege. The country regards it as a scandal and a wrong, and Mr. CRESWELL deserves thanks for the courageous pertinacity with which he presses a great reform upon an unwilling Congress.

Another branch of the subject, which does not admit of delay, is that relating to railroad routes and the necessity for readjusting the pay allowed to companies for service performed. Official correspondence recently published showed that on many routes the companies make the conveyance of mails a matter of convenience, that they adapt the route to their own plans, and that they do so because of the inadequacy of the remuneration fixed by law. Inefficient service, where it does occur, is mainly traceable to these circumstances. The present rates are regulated by the act of March, 1845, and the Postmaster-General so far sympathizes with the complaint of the companies as to recommend a revision of the law and an increase of the compensation—taking care, however, to make the allowance of the latter contingent upon amended service.

Notable among the recommendations of the report is one referring to the introduction of "correspondence," or "post-cards," now in use in Great Britain and North Germany. These cards are convenient, because requiring no folding or envelope, and their special adaptation is to brief business or social communications. They may be called, in fact, postal messages, and if carried, as Mr. CRESWELL proposes, at the rate of one cent each, they will really reduce the city postage one-half. Their introduction will tend to bring into general use the brevity and point of the telegraphic dispatch, and will thus deliver us from much of the bondage of the old epistolary form.

Lady Physicians.

Edinburgh has not generally been reckoned the most "progressive" place in the world, unless, perhaps, in metaphysics and moral philosophy. Nevertheless, there are seven young ladies regularly enrolled at the medical school there, who have had granted to them the privileges of study, and of matriculation, in due course, as cives of the University. "Mrs. Dr." will consequently become as common a title in North Britain, at no distant day, as it is fast getting to be in the United States. In spite of this surprising concession, however, the conservative spirit of a Scotch faculty has displayed itself in the exclusion of the seven ladies from the wards of the Infirmary. The inconvenience to the clinical lecturers of treating certain subjects before a mixed assembly of both sexes is the reason assigned for shutting the hospital doors against the female students; and five hundred of their male associates, in the most ungallant manner, have petitioned the authorities to persist in enforcing their rule of exclusion. The petitioners assert that had they foreseen being called upon to walk the wards in company with young ladies they would have sought another school. The ladies say that the medical school has no right, having taken their fees and accepted them as students, to refuse them any of the ordinary rights or privileges of students. Represented as they are by one of the ablest of living women, Miss SOPHIA JEX BLAKE, and having an argument in itself by no means easy to answer, the ladies certainly occupy a strong position, and one which it will be very hard to turn.

The difficulty must sooner or later have been fairly met and disposed of, and it is well that a test case has thus arisen wherein all that can be said on both sides of the controversy is pretty sure to be logically and eloquently set forth. Most reasonable and delicate-minded persons will admit on first thoughts the force of the adverse argument of the managers of the Infirmary and the petitioning students. It would seem, in truth, that only differently constituted people would wish to override so rational an objection. Yet, as commonly occurs, the argument of one side looks conclusive only until the other is heard. Miss JEX BLAKE urges that "A large proportion of the patients in the Infirmary being women, and women being present in all the wards as nurses, there can be nothing exceptional in our presence there as students. In our opinion, no objection can be raised to our attending clinical teaching, even in the male wards, which does not apply with at least equal force to the present instruction of male students in the female wards."

She further points out that among the subscribers and donors to the Infirmary there are as many women as men; that the wishes of a majority of the whole are in favor of the unrestricted admission of both sexes upon a common platform, and that three of the chief clinical lecturers, Drs. BALFOUR, WATSON and BENNETT, are willing to admit the ladies, with male students, to all their classes. These considerations are plainly entitled to be carefully weighed, and the result bids fair to be satisfactory to Miss BLAKE and her enterprising companions.

It is clear that, if women are to be allowed by law and public opinion to practice medicine at all, it is highly irrational to exclude them from any means open to the other sex for obtaining professional knowledge. The reasoning of those who maintain the incapacity of women to become good doctors, may or may not be sound; but its practical force must obviously be increased by the exclusion of female students from any privileges enjoyed by the males. The less the ability, the greater the need of culture, and the greater the relative value of experience. From the general drift and conduct of the Edinburgh discussion, it seems probable that the nice question touching the "delicacy" of women going through the usual clinical course, will be left ere long to the taste and discretion of the candidates themselves. Women who feel strongly drawn to the medical profession, are not likely to be squeamish, and the most simple and convenient method of settling this controversy will be apt in the sequel to prove the one adopted.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Economist publishes a very severe article on the government of New-York City, and on the chief persons connected with that government. There is no denying the fact that the Economist is an English newspaper, and the friends of TWEED, SWEENY, and FISK will doubtless make as much as they can out of that circumstance. But they will perhaps remember that the statements of the Economist are fully borne out by the articles which appeared in the New-York World last Spring, so that we suppose there must be some truth in them. It is not conceivable that the World would deceive its readers on such a subject. The article in the Economist contains nothing that will be new to our readers, but, if not new, it is all true, and, therefore, will bear reading.

The dispute between the Erie Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Company, with reference to the Bergen Tunnel, is very disgraceful. It reappears at short intervals, and always in a shape which under good management would be impossible. The most careful arrangements are needed at any time to secure to passengers through the tunnel the proper degree of safety; but safety is unattainable so long as the officers or workmen of either Company are at liberty to obstruct the passage of the other's trains. At one time an Erie switchman, or conductor, or superintendent, virtually closes the tunnel; at another, agents of the Delaware and Lackawanna are at fault; the result in each case being a provoking hindrance of travel, and a more or less serious disturbance of the peace. The cause of the trouble yesterday was so insignificant, that a few minutes' conference should have sufficed for its removal. Yet it remained in operation the greater part of the day; as many as seventy trains were stopped at the western end of the tunnel; some thousands of passengers were grievously inconvenienced; and a serious riot was all the time imminent. For this state of things there is no excuse. The Erie chiefs are, of course, too much occupied with other matters to attend to legitimate business, and therefore the public need not expect much consideration from them.

Not to be behind the Europeans, China has got a war upon her hands. The irrepressible Tartar population, who keep up the process relatively to the Celestial Empire which the Northern barbarians did, for some centuries, in regard to the Roman, have made another of their chronic insurrections. Between the Western traders who are creeping up her rivers from the eastern sea-board, and the nomadic races that keep up the infiltration of barbaric ideas of freedom from the west, the venerable and stationary civilization of the "Flowery Land" has some rude shocks before it in the immediate future.

The communication of Mr. F. W. J. HURST, of the National Steam Shipping Company, read at the meeting of the Department of Docks, brings out very clearly the utterly inadequate nature of the accommodation provided for European steamers at this port. Mr. HURST's forcible statement of practical details will be fully appreciated by any one who takes the trouble to inspect the condition of the North River piers devoted to European traffic. The enormous waste of time and money that must be entailed by the ridiculously circumscribed limits in which an enormous trade has to be disposed of, will become apparent to the most unprofessional observer, and the crying necessity for some immediate action being taken to retain so important a branch of the commerce of the port as the European traffic not yet migrated to Jersey, will be at once recognized.

North Carolina's languishing credit will not be improved by Gov. HOLDEN's exposition of the condition and purposes of the people. To pay the interest on the present debt, and to carry on the Government, taxation amounting to $2,500,000 is required. The Governor is candid enough to say that the people of the State will not pay this amount. Impoverished by the war, they are in no condition to endure heavy taxation, and, besides, they refuse to consider themselves liable for more than a part of the old debt, or for more than the amounts which the new or special bonds "commanded from first hands." If this is not partial repudiation, what would be? A recasting or consolidation and "scaling" of the debt is what this view must lead to, and though Gov. HOLDEN professes to deprecate it, he sees no method of averting it. He cites the will of the people as the supreme law, and the State creditors must submit with as much grace as they can muster.

Virginia seems likely to lose some of the recent additions to its adult population. We showed the other day, on the authority of the Richmond Whig, that Northern farmers are disappointed in regard to the productiveness of the soil. Now we learn from the Petersburg Index that political and social reasons have induced others to sell out and return to the North. "Others would do the same," the Index adds, "if they could find purchasers." Why are they dissatisfied? "The reason assigned is that they cannot express their political opinions and vote with the same freedom as they did at their former homes, without incurring the penalty of social ostracism by their neighbors of the Conservative Party." If just, the reason is quite sufficient. And we infer from the comments of the Index that there is some foundation for the allegation. The editor protests, indeed, that he and his friends have maintained pleasant relations with new-comers, but there is significance in the injunction that "a stranger can only advance his interests" "by deporting himself with modesty and propriety until such time as his standing becomes fixed." Perhaps the Virginia "Conservative" thinks that a stranger who votes the Radical ticket violates "modesty and propriety."

WASHINGTON.

Hints Regarding the Tone and Matter of the President's Message—The New Revenue Reform Party—Brooklyn Postal Facilities—The Forthcoming Indian Council—Swindling Patent Lawyers.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—From the little that can be learned regarding the tone and matter of the President's forthcoming Message, the public may expect a document full of bold and positive expressions. It will be somewhat longer than that of last year, and will discuss all the matters that have engaged the attention of the Administration for the past year. There will be a recommendation of action on the fisheries question, and a review of what has been done in the Indian service, with a pretty broad intimation that the civil service reform, which the people most need, is still being actively prosecuted. The President will adhere, with characteristic firmness, to his position on the acquisition of a foothold in the West Indies; and on the question of reviving our commerce he will reassert the views expressed last Summer. The President has given considerable thought lately to the great evils arising from the growing power of great corporations, and the concentration of vast material interests in the hands of the few. He may, however, prefer to present this matter to Congress at a later period, when his views as to the remedy are more thoroughly defined. Altogether, the Message is said to be decidedly affirmative in tone, and it is confidently expected that it will strike the public mind even more favorably than did that of last year.

THE NEW REVENUE REFORM PARTY.

It is a noticeable fact that the efforts made here thus far to determine who are going into the new revenue reform party coalition, for the purpose of organizing the next House, have all resulted in complete failure to find a single Republican, as yet, who is willing to be considered as ready for this job. Senators TRUMBULL, SCHURZ and CARPENTER have repudiated all tendency that way, while ALLISON, ORTH and SARGENT, though not members of the next House, disavow any sympathy with such a purpose, and LOGAN sends word here from Illinois that he is no party to any movement for the organization of the next House that is not regular Republican. So far there is yet neither form nor substance to the proposed movement.

THE COLORED MEMBER OF THE HOUSE.

Among the members who have arrived, "the colored man and brother" will present himself to the House on Monday next in the person of J. H. RAINEY, of South Carolina, elected to fill the vacancy caused by the enforced resignation of Mr. WHITTEMORE, who now graces the South Carolina State Senate. So there will be in the House a colored contemporary of Hon. Mr. REVELS in the Senate, and the equality of races in the two Houses will be satisfactorily maintained.

BROOKLYN POSTAL FACILITIES.

C. C. TALBOT, Esq., was today appointed Postmaster at Williamsburg, N. Y., vice STEMLER, suspended. This change was recommended by nearly all the prominent Republicans of Brooklyn, including the United States officers, and the leaders of the different factions, so far as they exist in that city now. It will not interfere with the proposed consolidation of the three Brooklyn offices, which the Postmaster-General will carry into effect as soon as the necessary legislation for the same can be secured. A bill is now before the Senate for that purpose.

CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

As far as known here there will be very few cases of contested elections brought before the House in the next Congress. No more than ten districts have been heard from where contests have been spoken of as possible, while the number, at present appearances, likely to arise will be only four or five. In the present term more than thirty seats have had rival claimants, which, besides furnishing an enormous amount of labor to the Committee on Elections and consuming, all told, more than a month's time of the House, cost the Treasury directly more than $100,000. The marked reduction of cases of the kind is noteworthy as an indication of the decline of political bitterness, and a spirit of determination to aid the will of the people, unless there is the plainest evidence that it has not found perfect expression.

THE COMING INDIAN COUNCIL.

Commissioner PARKER, of the Indian Office, leaves this city to-morrow for New-York, whence he will proceed, after a brief delay, to the West, to attend the grand Indian Council. The Council meets at Ocmulgee, in the Creek Nation. It is provided for by the treaty with the Creeks, ratified June, 1866, and is composed of delegates from the tribes resident in the Indian Territory, and the Councils presided over by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs. The Grand Council met first in September last, but as only a few delegates were present, it was adjourned till Monday next. It receives the encouragement of the Government in the hope that it may have a civilizing tendency on the tribes.

SWINDLING PATENT LAWYERS.

The revised Patent laws which went into effect July 8, contain a provision under which the Patent Office is able to rid itself and inventors of swindling attorneys, who have caused much annoyance, and in some cases serious injury, both to the office and its patrons. The third case under the law was recently finished. OTTO SEISSRING, of this city, was charged with gross misconduct: first, of repeatedly receiving from inventors moneys to be paid into the Patent Office as final Government fees upon allowed applications, and retaining the same, although payment was several times demanded by the Commissioner. Twelve cases were cited. The second charge was that he had represented that he had formerly been a full examiner in the office, when in fact he had never been more than a clerk. SEISSRING was given full opportunity to answer, and was treated with as much leniency as justice. He was, however, adjudged guilty, and debarred from practicing before the office in any case. The order of the Commissioner was approved by Secretary DELANO. Other similar cases are under consideration by Gen. DUNCAN, the Acting Commissioner.

CLEARING-HOUSE CERTIFICATES.

As some of the three per cent. certificates called in under the late order of the Secretary of the Treasury may include some which have been stamped for Clearing-house purposes, the Secretary of the Treasury has directed the Assistant Treasurer at New-York to stamp other certificates of equal amount in place of such as may be included in his call, in order that the aggregate amount of Clearing-house certificates may not be reduced.

HEALTH OF SENATOR MORRILL.

A letter has been received from Senator MORRILL, of Maine, in which he says that his health is surely improving, but that he will probably not visit Washington before the holidays. There will be no business of moment before his Committee (Appropriations) prior to that time, as it must await the preparation of those measures in the House.

AMUSEMENTS.

Announcements and Notes.

Matinées today occur at Wallack's, at the Fifth-avenue Theatre, at Niblo's, at the Grand Opera-house, at Booth's, at the Olympic, at Lina Edwin's, at Wood's Museum and at the Circus. The regular evening entertainments will be offered at all the houses, except at Wallack's, where "The Road to Ruin" is to be acted; and at Niblo's, where "As You Like It" will be performed. At Association Hall, the regular Saturday afternoon concert will take place. In the evening, the grand entertainment at the Fourteenth-street Theatre, arranged by the Cercle Francais de L'Harmonie, in aid of suffering France, with the co-operation of Mesdames Hallier-Dossy, Susanne Thal, Leydeker, Rosa, Taillefer, and of MM. Lefranc, Gausins, Prediçam, Brunel, Juignet, Edgard, Rousseau and Gistigny, will occur.

The Aldine Press for December is a superb number—far superior to even the brilliant productions which have already proceeded from the same press. Several of the illustrations are tinted—the first subject being a head of our Savior; the design is a noble one, and the execution of it quite faultless. We cannot praise too highly the pictures of the dogs, of the "Cossack Horses in Winter," or of the old Hall lit up for Christmas festivities, while the "outsiders" gaze eagerly through the gateway. There is an etching of the "Infant St. John," which no admirer of such works can do without. This publication is altogether almost unexampled—it opens up a new era in American art, and will be preserved by collectors among their choicest treasures.

SUNDAY EDITION OF THE TIMES

THE LATEST NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS BY TELEGRAPH AND MAILS.

Entertaining Literary and Miscellaneous Readings, Correspondence, &c.

The SUNDAY EDITION of the NEW-YORK TIMES is one of the most popular of the Sunday papers published in the City, as it contains, in addition to all the news, European war dispatches and reports, and letters from its correspondents stationed in distant places, a great variety of literary and miscellaneous reading matter, specially prepared and collected for its columns.

The TIMES of to-morrow, Sunday, Dec. 4, will be an unusually readable paper. It will contain the usual quantity of extracts from Current Literature, including a good Story;—

An entertaining article on BRIC-A-BRACISTS; who they are and what they do; gems in pawnbrokers' shops; experiences of some New-York Bric-a-bracists; suggestions to the managers of the Crystal Palace;—

Some words of truth about SITUATION HUNTING, by "A Man Out of Place;" which will be read by all with interest and some, perhaps, with profit;—

An article on THE WESTCHESTER BOULEVARDS; the work on the magnificent roadways nearly completed; another look at the advantages of these new means of communication;—

Another on ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS: where and how they are made; the effects of the Franco-Prussian war upon the trade; the tide of manufacture turning toward the United States; a gigantic enterprise afoot for the extension of flower-making in this City; proposed establishment of a school of instruction on a large scale;—

Notes on the FRENCH BAZAAR: Sights and Scenes of the Closing Day; Some of the People Present; Results of the Enterprise, &c.;—

The usual quantity of NOTES AND COMMENTS, short paragraphs on queer subjects, discovered here and there in our domestic and foreign exchanges, specially prepared for the Sunday edition of the TIMES;—

EDITORIALS, ARTICLES AND NOTES on topics of the day, political, social and general;—

The MUSICAL and THEATRICAL NEWS and GOSSIP of the week, at home and abroad, with announcements of promised new attractions;—

Full LOCAL REPORTS; NEWS of BROOKLYN, and the neighboring cities and towns of JERSEY;—

MILITARY NOTES; summaries of FOREIGN and RELIGIOUS news, &c., &c.

The Sunday edition of the TIMES has a large and steadily increasing circulation. It goes among the best class of readers in the City and immediate neighborhood, including Brooklyn, and the near cities and towns of New-Jersey, and is doubtless more thoroughly read than any other Sunday paper. It is, consequently, an excellent advertising medium, and is so regarded by many of the largest advertisers. Advertisements intended for insertion in this edition must be received in the TIMES Publication Office by 8½ this evening to insure proper classification.

NEW-YORK TIMES FOR EUROPE.

The EUROPEAN EDITION of the NEW-YORK TIMES is published THIS MORNING, and may be had at the counter of the publication office, in wrappers, ready for mailing. Price FIVE CENTS.

It will contain a full digest of Political, General and Local News up to the latest moment; a review of the Money and Produce Markets; all the Telegraphic News contained in the DAILY TIMES of this date; and such selections from the editorials and correspondence of the TIMES as may have interest for Americans residing abroad and for European subscribers.

The EUROPEAN EDITION of the TIMES will be found on file in the offices of all the leading bankers in Europe.

B. F. STEVENS, No. 7 Henrietta-street, Covent Garden, London, is agent for THE TIMES in Great Britian. He will receive subscriptions and advertisements, and supply copies of the papers to Americans temporarily in London.

1846. TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR. 1871.

THE

ENLARGED.

"The best Literary and Society Paper in America."

NEW WRITERS!

NEW DEPARTMENTS!

NEW ATTRACTIONS!

After an existence of a

QUARTER OF A CENTURY,

THE HOME JOURNAL will enter its Twenty-sixth Year with its size increased by the addition of making it a quarter larger than it is at present. It will be printed with new type, on superior, heavy-laid paper, and will be otherwise changed, and in every respect greatly improved. New departments will be added, and fresh writers engaged, and no pains will be spared to make it not only the

LEADING ORGAN OF CULTIVATED AMERICAN SOCIETY,

BUT THE

HANDSOMEST PAPER IN AMERICA.

The leading features of the new volume will be Editorials on topics of fresh interest; Brilliant Romances and Portraitures of American Life; Editorial Reviews of new events in the world of Belles-Letters; Painting, Sculpture, Science, Music and the Drama; Original Essays; Ample Excerpts from the best European Writers; Spicy Letters from Correspondents in all the great Capitals of the World; Copious Extracts from New Books; and Racy Accounts of Sayings, Happenings and Doings in the Beau Monde, embracing the very Freshest Gossip of interest in Fashions, Fashionable Notabilities, Balls, Weddings, Parties, Engagements, etc., in this country and in Europe—the whole completely mirroring the wit and wisdom, the humor and pathos, the news and sparkling gossip of the times.

The conductors of THE HOME JOURNAL are proud to refer their patrons to the past as a guarantee of the future. The success which has crowned their efforts encourages them to hope for a much larger circle of readers and friends than ever before.

INDUCEMENTS TO SUBSCRIBERS.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE.

Notwithstanding the enlargement and general improvement of the paper, its subscription price will not be increased, and the publishers now offer it as one of the cheapest as well as best journals in the country.

Subscribers (both new and old) wishing to take any of the first-class magazines or weeklies with the HOME JOURNAL, may have them at the following greatly reduced rates:

The HOME JOURNAL and any $4 periodical (either Harper's Magazine, Harper's Weekly, Harper's Bazar, Atlantic Monthly, Scribner's Monthly, The Galaxy, Lippincott's Magazine, Appleton's Journal, Blackwood's Magazine, Westminster Review, or any of the English quarterlies, republished here) will be sent for $6, the full price being $7. The HOME JOURNAL and Our Young Folks for $3 50; full rates, $6. HOME JOURNAL and Littell's Living Age for $8 50; full price, $11. HOME JOURNAL and Eclectic Magazine, $6; full rates, $8.

HOME JOURNAL CLUBS.

Subscribers (both new and old) forming clubs for THE HOME JOURNAL alone, will receive it at the following rates:

Three copies one year, or one copy three years, $7 50; six copies, one year, $12.

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS, $3 A YEAR.

☞ Subscriptions will take date immediately, or at any time the subscribers prefer. Address

MORRIS PHILLIPS & CO.,
No. 3 Park-place, New-York City.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

HOME JOURNAL.

"THE HOME JOURNAL has for many years successfully carried out its plan of furnishing a pure, high-toned, entertaining paper of literature, art and society for American homes. It has always promoted a right culture and refinement, and has been an acceptable visitor to the home circle."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"THE HOME JOURNAL has improved greatly under its present management, and is, as it deserves to be, in a very flourishing condition."—New-York Evening Express.

"THE HOME JOURNAL is par excellence, the organ of fashionable society."—New-York Herald.

"THE HOME JOURNAL is the best ornament any man can place upon his library table."—Boston Post.

HOME JOURNAL.

"THE HOME JOURNAL continues a popular and unique organ of literature, society, fashionable life and news of the day."—New-York Tribune.

"THE HOME JOURNAL now takes its rightful place among the most extensively circulating weeklies in the country."—Boston Transcript.

"THE HOME JOURNAL.—We are glad to learn that this worthy, high-toned and popular family journal is rapidly increasing in circulation. A good sign, in this vulgar, noisy and deteriorating age."—Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.

"THE HOME JOURNAL is one of the least objectionable of all public journals, because of its high literary standard, and chaste and beautiful tone."—Atlanta (Ga.) New Era.

"THE HOME JOURNAL is in better hands, we judge, than even those of its original founders, though N. P. Willis and George P. Morris were hard to beat."—New-York Stockholder.

"THE HOME JOURNAL.—If there is anything going on in upper tendom which the HOME JOURNAL does not know, it is safe to believe it is not worth the knowing."—New-York Independent.

"THE HOME JOURNAL is a better paper today than it has ever been, and as a consequence is in excellent demand throughout the best American society."—New-York Season.

"THE HOME JOURNAL has now become the recognised organ of the fashionable world. Under its present management it has largely increased in circulation."—New-York Commercial Advertiser.

CURRENT NOTES.

Sir JOHN McDONALD, of Canada, is to have a testimonial from a grateful public.

A recent attempt to establish a private post-office at Chicago on the New-York principle, proved a failure.

A Canadian exchange casually remarks that the municipal debt of this City is as great as the whole debt of the Dominion.

The total loss by fire at New-Haven, Conn., since the year 1800 foots up $2,156,728, of which amount the insurance companies paid $1,170,215.

After an absence of one day, three vessels recently returned to Portsmouth, N. H., with 62,000 pouns of fish.

An excited merchant, at Detroit, Mich., who shot a burglar the other night, has been arrested.

The Post claims that the facilities at Boston for receiving large bodies of immigrants and sending them direct to the West, are not inferior to those of any other city on the sea-board.

Several leading public men of Philadelphia have resolved that the "Horse-Shoe Shoals," opposite the lower part of that city, ought to be removed.

A member of Celestials at the house of the celebrated Chinese physician, at San Francisco, were injured seriously, if not fatally, on the 22d inst., by a gas explosion.

At a meeting of the Missouri Woman's Suffrage Association, recently held, Miss PHOEBE COUZINS paid a very handsome tribute to the memory of the late Miss BASHKALOW, the first female lawyer in that State.

A genuine love affair between a Russian gentleman and Miss JULIA MUNROE, formerly of Elbridge, Onondaga County, recently culminated in marriage. The ceremony took place in Switzerland.

The Wayne County Citizen tells the story of a woman named VIOLET JUSTIN, a resident of Buckingham, in this State, who was arrested a few days since on a charge of having assisted a female friend to destroy her life.

A controversy in regard to the disposition of the Kingsbury estate, at Chicago, in which Gen. BURNSIDE and others are defendants, is at present under investigation in one of the Courts of that city.

Four boys, who lately started from Philadelphia with revolvers and a capital of $700, for the purpose of becoming bandits on the Plains, were arrested at Pittsburg and sent home to their mothers on Wednesday.

Ten immense buildings of Joliet stone are at present in course of construction on Rock Island, Ill., for a Government arsenal, which is probably destined to supersede those of St. Louis and Springfield, Mass.

Cleveland, Ohio, seems determined to have nine professional base-ball players to contest for the championship with the Mutuals and White Stockings the coming season. With this view, the Forest City Club has been chartered, and half the capital stock already subscribed.

The daily catch of white-fish in Lake Ontario during the past fortnight is reported to have been from two to three tons. Some time since a paragraph went the rounds, which stated that the scarcity of white and other fish in the lake was so great that the supply would fail at no distant period. There is evidently a mistake somewhere.

Another verdict has been rendered against MARTIN, the defaulting cashier of the National Hide and Leather Bank of Boston. The jury in the case of AMOS P. TAPLEY against MARTIN, found for the plaintiff $5,714, the amount claimed, and found specially that Mr. TAPLEY had paid the amount of the bond in good faith, and with the assent of MARTIN.

A movement is now on foot to raise $100,000 for the purpose of making the Buffalo General Hospital permanently independent. Less than $1,000 will not be taken from a single subscriber. Mr. S. G. AUSTIN heads the list with $10,000. This gentleman has also given $5,000 to the Buffalo Orphan Asylum, on condition that $50,000 shall be raised.

Although WESTON is a native of Providence, R. I., the newspapers of that city seem to have lost faith in him. The Journal suggests that a variation be made in the accustomed exercise at the next trial, so that he may "run, skip, amble, dance, or use his light fantastic toes in anything except a walk." He is no pedestrian, and he will never make a fortune with the successes of his legs."

The traveler of a Cincinnati wholesale house recently perpetrated a very wicked joke upon C. D. JOHNSON & CO., of Fulton Landing, Ky. He caused a good sized poster, bearing the name of their firm, to be placed upon the walls of the town, offering to purchase house cats at prices ranging from $12 to $18 per dozen. The result was that during several days, hundreds of these animals, in barrels and crates, were brought to the store of the Messrs. JOHNSON. Among other dupes there was a young farmer, who thought he saw in the notice a good chance to turn an honest penny, and went about the country purchasing cats until he succeeded in collecting 500. He now declares that he will compel the traveler to keep his word, even though he should be obliged to take the animals with him to Cincinnati, and commence a suit in the Courts of that city.

A simple-minded German, who had some difficulty with an insurance agent at Pittsburg, Penn., the other day, ceased to make payments upon a policy of insurance on his wife, in consequence of the agent having broken faith with him in another transaction. It seems the German had insured his stable for $900, at the same time that he took out a policy on his wife. In the ordinary course of events the stable took fire and was entirely consumed. The agent discovered that the building had not at any time been worth $500, and erected a new brick one at $750, thus saving $150 to the Company. The German declared that he wanted the money more than the stable, and being fearful, in the event of his wife's death, that the Company might endeavor to replace her also, instead of paying the amount of insurance, he forfeited the premiums already paid, and gave up the business in disgust.

Sacramento Correspondence of Cincinnati Commercial, Nov. 28.

About the year 1835 a Scottish sailor boy, named JAMES BLACK, deserted from a ship lying in San Francisco Bay, and, after divers adventures, settled down at the Mission San Rafael, about twelve miles above the metropolis. He learned the Spanish language, and eventually married into the Spanish family of SEPULVEDA. He received an immense grant of land from the Mexican Government, covered it and 30,000 acres beside with his cattle, and gradually enlarged himself into the form and stature of an old-time California grandee. In the process of time he had a daughter born unto his house and vast estates—his only child, I believe. Then came the amazing rush and thronging hither of thousands, and again thousands of hungry miners, and this whilom, ragged Scottish lad, who had once walked like a mealeter in the tule swamps, found himself suddenly in possession of a "wee bit siller." "Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them." He was evidently of this latter sort, like many other early Californians, for he appears to have been of a rather feeble order of understanding. He deeded one of his valuable ranches to this daughter, and, in 1864, she married a dentist in San Francisco, named BURDELL, a nephew of Dr. BURDELL, murdered in New-York, to which marriage her father was opposed.

About a year afterward Mrs. BLACK went down to San Francisco, to have a dental operation performed by her son-in-law, and she died under the influence of his chloroform. This drove her husband almost distracted; he became dissipated and besotted, fell into the toils of a managing Mexican widow named PACHECO, who scared him by a falsehood in regard to her condition into a hasty marriage. She poisoned his imbecile mind against this daughter, and caused him to believe that she had mortgaged the ranch he deeded to her. He became flighty, made a new will every week and tore it up, but in every one alike he cut off his daughter portionless, except for the land already given. Finally he fell off his horse on a hillside while riding after cattle, struck his head with violence on a rock, and, after lingering awhile, died, though he made no new will after his head was injured. After his death the parties assembled in the family parlor to listen to the reading of the will, and the daughter then learned beyond peradventure that she was cut off without a dime, except the ranch. She rose quietly and calmly, and asked to see the will. It was handed to her, and as the twinkling of an eye she tore

ARCHITECTURAL IMPROVEMENTS.

New Public Buildings to be Erected—A Jewish Temple—The Proposed Banking-house of the German Savings Bank—A Central Park Apartment Hotel—Important Improvements in a Fifth-avenue Church.

Plans for a number of new and expensive buildings have recently been submitted at the Department of Buildings in this City, JAMES M. MACGREGOR, Superintendent, of which the following are the most important:

A NEW JEWISH TEMPLE.

The lot of ground situated on the south-west corner of Lexington-avenue and Fifty-fifth-street, with a frontage on the avenue of 100 feet 5 inches, and a depth of 140 feet, has been lately purchased by the Jewish congregation of "Ahawath Chesed." Upon this lot the erection of a new temple will be immediately commenced, which, when finished, will be an ornament to this section of the City. The new church will resemble in form the Fifth-avenue Synagogue, having square towers on the two front corners, in which the stairways giving entrance to the galleries will be located. The main entrance to the edifice will be through the large doors in the centre. The size of the proposed new building is 93 feet front, 83 feet rear, 140 feet in depth, and in height from base to dome about 75 feet. The interior will comprise a cellar basement and the auditorium, the latter being about 80 by 100 feet in the clear, and 65 feet in height. Two spacious galleries will furnish additional accommodations. The material to be used in the construction is Belville stone, with bands and trimmings of Ohio stone, the roof slate, and the cornices of galvanized iron. The walls will be coped with cut stone. The foundation is laid on the solid rock, with a foundation in depth of from ten to fifteen feet; the upper walls are three feet thick and the entire work is to be executed in a perfect and substantial manner. The estimate cost of the new temple is $165,000, exclusive of the value of the ground. The architect is Mr. HENRY FERNBACH, No. 21 Nassau-street, and the builder engaged Mr. SAMUEL COCHRAN.

THE NEW GERMAN SAVINGS BANK.

The new German Savings Bank, preparations for the erection of which have been in progress during the entire Summer and Autumn, as the plans for the building have only recently been submitted, is worthy of special mention. This institution is now temporarily transacting business at No. 2 Union-square. The location selected by the directors is the lot on the south-east corner of Fourth-avenue and Fourteenth-street, formerly occupied by the Belvidere Hotel, which, although it was a large building in good repair, has been taken down, to make room for the proposed new banking-house. Owing to the rock formation in this part of the City, a great amount of labor has been required and time consumed in blasting, &c., in order to prepare the foundations for the imposing and solid structure to be placed upon them. The lot is a large one, irregular in form, in size as follows: Fourth-avenue, 95 feet 3 inches; angle between avenue and Fourteenth-street, 15 feet; Fourteenth-street front, 105 feet 4 inches; rear lines, 60 feet 6 inches, and 53 feet 1 inch, respectively. The building, when completed, will cover the entire lot, with extensive vaults excavated under the sidewalks. Its total height will be 93 feet, and the divisions, a cellar, basement, and four stories, the ceilings being respectively, first story, 22 feet; second, 18 feet; third and fourth, 17 feet each. Some idea of the strength of the structure can be formed when it is stated that the walls throughout start from solid rock, while the walls are of the following thickness: Piers and front walls 4 feet 4 inches, side walls 2 feet, interior walls, 20 inches. The avenue and street elevation is to be of granite, the basement being Quincey blue, and the residue of Concord white granite, all the cornices will also be composed of the solid stone. The roof is a Mansard, and the architectural design of the building massive and elegant in the extreme. Every precaution has been exercised to make the banking-house entirely fire-proof, the supporting work and girders being of iron, with brick arches turned in between the beams. Heavy iron shutters will be placed upon all the rear windows. The first story will be used for the business of the Bank, and the basement and upper stories let for offices. The entrance will be on the angle at the intersection of the street and avenue. In the interior the finish will be in the most modern style, all the work being in hard woods. Every convenience will be introduced in the way of water, gas, &c., while the entire building will be heated with steam. In all its appliances, it is designed to make this bank one of the most elegant of its kind in the City. The total cost will be $300,000, to which sum, if the cost of the ground be added, the expense will be over $500,000. The architects of the building are Messrs. HENRY FERNBACH the same as of the new Jewish temple above noticed, and EDWARD H. KENDALL. The builder is Mr. CHRISTIAN EBERSPACHER.

ANOTHER "FRENCH FLAT HOTEL."

During the past week plans for a new apartment hotel have also been filed, and the lot chosen upon which it is to be erected is a most eligible one, being on Fifty-ninth-street, fronting on Central Park, distant 175 feet west of the grand plaza on Fifth-avenue. The lot is 75 feet front by 90 in depth, and the hotel projected will, when finished, cover this space. The building will be four stories in height, with a basement, and conveniently arranged for the accommodation of about sixty families. The material is of brick, the front being of Philadelphia pressed brick, with Ohio stone trimmings. The estimated cost of the structure is $140,000, without reference to the value of the lots. The owners are Messrs. PETER ALGIE and JOHN H. QUINN, and the architect Mr. J. W. MARSHALL, No. 162 East Fifty-seventh-street.

IMPORTANT CHURCH IMPROVEMENT.

In connection with the proposed new buildings described above, the new addition and front entrance to the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Fifth-avenue, between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth streets, which will be completed in a few days, is also worthy of notice, as when opened it will present one of the finest effects that grace that splendid avenue. The addition is 35 by 75 feet, and cost $60,000. The height of the tower is 80 feet, and it is surrounded by a short Mansard-roofed tower, an ornamental iron work, and plain Latin cross. The front is of heavy Ohio stone, elaborately wrought into symbolized figures. The top cornice is to be furnished with three life-size statues in the same stone. The central figure is that of the Redeemer, the side figures being angels. The number of sittings is increased by this new space from 700 to 900. The entire dimensions are now 75 by 135 feet. The interior is one of the most ornate and peculiar of any in the Episcopal denomination. The height of the roof is sixty feet, and is finished in lath and plaster, as is all the rest of the woodwork, except the chancel, which is in black walnut. Along the left wall are four niches containing life-size figures of the Evangelists finely executed in oil, with gold back grounds. Over the altar is also an exquisite picture of "Christ, the High Priest," by OERTEL. It is 12 by 15. The Savior is the central figure, and is represented as interceding for the people, while on either side are four angels in attitudes of adoration. Over this part of the church is an elegant canopy of carved walnut, supported by white marble columns inlaid with gold. There are six columns also, respectively, of red, blue, and Irish Victoria granite, with carved capitals, in figures of the rose, lily and passion-flowers, intermingled with olive and palm branches. The font is of Caen stone, resting upon four columns of black and yellow marble, having a base of three layers in French gravot, Victoria red and Irish black marble. Rich stained glass, with finely-wrought symbolical designs, transmit a pleasant light, and give a mellow tone to all the interior decorations. The basement supplies a new and spacious Sunday-school room. There is also a new organ, by CASH, costing $5,000. The total expense is over $200,000. The associate rectors are Rev. Dr. HOWLAND and CONRAD.

The Future of Canada—Experience of British Troops from Montreal.

From the Montreal Gazette, Nov. 29.

The last of our garrison, 100 men of the Sixtieth Rifles, left here last evening for Quebec, and the old barracks, which have been occupied by Imperial troops since the conquest, are now in other hands. This has been so long expected that it excites little surprise, but it is difficult to reflect upon it without a degree of wistful regret. Quebec itself will follow in a longer or shorter time, but scarcely less than had the citadel of Quebec been evacuated are we now virtually independent. With the form passes away from these regions the power of Britain, who thus transfers into our own hands our coming destinies. These have been so long and so amicably linked in the mutual exercise, on the one hand of duty, and on the other of protection, that they cannot be severed without sadness; and the red coat of the line will long be remembered with pride, and let us hope, if need were, the courage of the wearer be emulated by our volunteers. These may, possibly, no more be seen on our streets, but the recollection of the days when they mingled with the dark hues of the militia in many a historic and victorious field will not cease to be cherished. The bitterness of the conquest, and of the rancorous contests with the United States are forgotten; and though, so to speak, the school of the art of war is left to us, let it be hoped that the exercise of that art will long be unknown within our borders. The departure of the last of the troops yesterday evening, was significant, and will hereafter be set down as such by the future historian. The legions that are being withdrawn, if need be, can return; but a new era is henceforth ours—and not the less fraught with

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

One sale was made at the Exchange, yesterday, (Dec. 2,) as follows: A house and lot on the north side of One Hundred and Thirtieth-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. Sold for $15,500, to GEO. H. FELP. The transaction was effected by JAMES M. MILLER, and the sale was a legal one by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of RICHARD C. BEAMISH, Esq., referee. The mortgage foreclosed amounted to $15,000. The attendance at the Exchange was not large, and the market generally was characterized by no particular feature of interest. The business projected for next week, occasions considerable discussion, and those interested in real estate, are somewhat anxious as to the result of the proposed sales.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

BENJ. P. FAIRCHILD, Auctioneer.

BY V. K. STEVENSON, SON & CO.

Office, No. 11 Pine-st.

(Unless previously disposed of by private sale, as an entirety,)

On THURSDAY, Dec. 8,

At 12 o'clock, at Exchange Sales-room,

No. 111 Broadway.

(No postponement on account of bad weather.)

POSITIVE SALE OF THE ENTIRE BLOCK BOUNDED BY 5TH-AV., (CENTRAL PARK,) MADISON-AV., 78TH AND 79TH STS., comprising thirty-four building lots, and facing the GRAND 79th-st. entrance to Central Park.

This block has long been considered by many competent judges as THE CHOICEST on the line of the Park. It is the only WHOLE block that can be purchased. It is adapted to IMMEDIATE improvements; 5TH-AV., 78th and 79th sts. are sewered, and the streets on the four sides of the block are PAVED with Nicolson or Belgian pavement. The Madison-av. CARS are running up as far as 86th-st.

The location is HIGH, DRY and HEALTHY, OVERLOOKING the HANDSOMEST portions of the CENTRAL PARK. The sale will be "POSITIVE." The block will be offered as A WHOLE, as a set-up price, when, if not taken, it will be sold in lots to suit purchasers. TERMS favorable. Seventy per cent. may remain, if desired, on bond and mortgage for FIVE YEARS. Each and every lot, with each and every rear, IS RESTRICTED, as to also every lot in the block on the north side of 79th-st., thus ensuring for ever a CONSTANTLY RISING AND FASHIONABLE neighborhood and MAGNIFICENT improvements. Parties wishing to buy the ENTIRE property before the day fixed for selling at auction may apply to DUN, BARLOW & CO., No. 335 Broadway or to the auctioneers.

WE OFFER FOR SALE

Evansville, Henderson and Nashville Railroad

FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. BONDS, due in 1907, interest payable on the first days of January and July, at the BANK OF AMERICA, New-York.

The line of this road extends from HENDERSON, on the OHIO RIVER, to the State line of TENNESSEE, passing through the rich cornfields of Western Kentucky, and forming important connections with CHICAGO, NASHVILLE, the SOUTH and EAST.

Seventy-nine miles are completed, at a cost of $2,500,000, raised almost entirely from stock subscriptions, leaving only twenty miles to be built, which section is nearly ready for the iron, and will be completed and opened by January next.

The net earnings are now quite large, and there is no reasonable doubt that the extensive local traffic and important connections of the road will make it abundantly remunerative to the stockholders.

The first and only mortgage of all the property and franchises of the Company is for ONE MILLION DOLLARS, (or $10,000 per mile,) payable as above.

More than $500,000 of the bonds have been already negotiated, and the remainder will be sold for the present at 82 and accrued interest; at which rate they constitute a very desirable investment.

Further information will be furnished on application to us.

RAILROAD

First Mortgage Seven Per Cent Bonds.

REDEEMABLE 1900.

Interest payable 1st of January and 1st of July, in the City of New-York.

The mortgage is for $3,500,000 on a road 270 miles long, which has been in successful operation for many years. The line is about 6 feet per mile, which makes it, with few exceptions, the smallest issued on any road in the United States. It was created for the sole purpose of paying of the debt due the State of Tennessee, amounting to $4,117,781, and an examination into this security will prove it to be one of the best ever offered in this market.

REV. MR. GANSE, OF THE NORTH-west Reformed Church, having recently removed to No. 155 East 31st-st., in the neighborhood of their new church edifice, corner 30th-st. and 37th-st., his congregation met, last Thursday evening, to welcome him in his new home. The meeting was intended as a surprise, and was completely successful in every agreeable feature of such an attempt. A splendid bouquet of choice flowers, on the centre-table, filled the rooms with a delicate fragrance that harmonized with the spirit of the guests. After some time had been spent in pleasant social intercourse the meeting was called to order by Mr. T. A. BROUWER, who, in a neat and appropriate speech, tendered to his minister the congratulations of his people, and at the same time presented to him certain more substantial tokens of their kind feelings, embodied in a form which always cheers the heart of every sensible Pastor. Mr. GANSE responded, with mingled wit and feeling, in his usual happy manner in impromptu addresses, thanking his people warmly for this evidence of their affectionate regard. The company broke up about 11 o'clock, having passed an evening of pure enjoyment, which every one present will long remember. The Madison-avenue Reformed Church, as this congregation will be called in the future, are worshiping at present in Association Hall, but expect to take possession of their new church about the 1st day of May next, with the spirit of energy and harmony thus far displayed by them, their enterprise promises fairly to be attended with large success. Their building will be an architectural embellishment to the part of the City where it is located, and their Pastor has every qualification that gives assurance of accomplishing the more important object of building up a Christian church that shall embody and exemplify the doctrines of the gospel.

PARIS IN NEW-YORK.

Great Improvements in Silver-Work and Jewelry—The Best Paris Workmen Now in this City—Exquisite Workmanship Displayed.

There are few departments of industrial art in which greater improvements have been made of late years than in silver-work and jewelry. Until a comparatively recent period, a very high artistic standard was rarely aimed at. The finer specimens of work in gold or silver were generally imported from abroad, and although good substantial articles were produced here, the best models were seldom imitated. In this respect a very great change has been made, and to no one house is the advance so much due as to TIFFANY & CO., who have stood so long at the head of their profession in this City. They have pursued, for some years past, the endeavor to elevate every branch of manufacture within their range, and have now arrived at a point at which they may safely boast of excelling almost all foreign competitors.

This is the result of great enterprise and liberality, directed by experienced judgment. People who have been in the habit of "dropping in" at the old store in Broadway, now closed, must have noticed, for years past, how the workmanship of all the articles exhibited was gradually assuming a higher form. Skilled labor was sought for in all quarters, and as first-rate excellence was always aimed at, the result was that inferior productions were very seldom seen on the shelves or in the cases.

The war in Europe has accidentally led to a fresh advance in this direction. The best workmen in Paris have been obliged to seek for employment elsewhere, and the foremost among them were at once engaged by the enterprising firm whose new premises on the corner of Broadway and Fifteenth-street have added so much to the outward attractions of the City. These French artists have found congenial occupation, and a hearty appreciation, in New-York. The work of one of them especially deserves to be exhibited by the side of the famous masterpieces of the age. He constructs the most delicate and beautiful designs in those precious stones which are ordinarily extremely difficult of management. There are specimens of flowers made of diamonds which are marvels of workmanship—every curve being as perfect as if it were made of some plastic material which could be readily moulded into any form. These are the productions which people used to seek for eagerly in Paris, and which never failed to bring enormous prices. They are now made in our own City, and sold at rates far more reasonable than Parisian rarity-hunters ever hoped for. There is probably no collection of diamonds at present to be seen in any store in the world equal to that which TIFFANY & Co. have on exhibition.

The silver-ware, again, made by the workmen of the firm on their own premises, will render clear to the most casual observer the progress which has been made in this department of art. There is a kind of unpolished silver which may almost be called a specialty of this house—they, at least, have brought it to greater perfection than has been known elsewhere. One large "cup" may be seen, with birds and flowers upon it, which, in former times, would have been competed for by half the royal houses of Europe. It is worthy of a place by the side of the finest examples the silversmith ever produced. The striking feature in the whole collection is the excellence and purity of the taste in even the smallest articles. Charming designs have been copied, even for a tea-pot or a cream-jug, and the mere possession of a silver tea-service is very little compared with the taste which any purchaser may evince by choosing with moderate care from these specimens. For presents to young couples who have rejected Mr. Punch's celebrated advice to "those about to marry"—namely, don't—this unpolished silver affords a most tempting field of choice. Indeed, there are very few persons to whom a specimen of it could be presented who would not be disposed to prize the gift more than one of much greater cost, but of less intrinsic merit and beauty.

It is greatly owing to the artistic finish of articles used in daily life that the firm has made so great a success. In former times, a tea-service might be very massive, and the chasing sometimes pretty—but, as a rule, really beautiful designs were not often seen. When they were to be had, the price placed them beyond the reach of ordinary purchasers. TIFFANY & Co. have solved the difficult problem of producing an article of surpassing excellence at moderate prices. Silver-ware as heavy as our forefathers delighted in is now made, but it is transmuted into exquisite shapes. Models have been copied from Etruscan vases, from the Pompeiian relics, from Greek sculptures, from every source to which art lent a special charm. The utmost scope is given to the ingenuity of native workmen, and if they have original ideas, they may at once give expression to their genius in any metal which suits them. Thus it arises that the display of silver-ware at TIFFANY'S is far finer, more varied, and better selected than could be found at any silversmith's abroad.

It is one of the most praiseworthy characteristics of this eminent firm that it has by no means exclusively studied the rich in its efforts to advance the jeweler's art. It has bestowed just as much attention on the article which a poor man might reasonably afford to give his wife or daughter at Christmas, as on the suite of pearls or diamonds fit for a millionaire. The customer with only a few dollars in his pockets need not be afraid to go into this store, grand as it looks, and ask for what he wants. He may find a brooch or ring of exquisite workmanship, and perfect taste, or a charming bit of silver-ware, or a clock, or some article designed as much for use as for ornament, quite within the compass of his means. This class of custom is indeed carefully encouraged by Messrs. TIFFANY & Co., as it well deserves to be, for it represents the most numerous portion of the community. The beautiful things which are made for children and young persons in this establishment are well worthy the attention of all who take an interest in a noble art. If any one wishes to buy a pearl necklace worth $12,000 or $16,000, he can find a lovely one here; but he can also make a good investment of less than half-a-dozen dollars. It has always been a favorable peculiarity of the house that its agents are as attentive to the poor as to the rich, and men better acquainted with their business, or taking a more intelligent interest in it, could nowhere be found than in this store. Some of them, like Mr. MAGAURAN, are so closely and honorably identified with the house, that it seems difficult to understand how one could get on without the other.

The collection of rare and precious stones now possessed by this firm is one of the finest in the world. There are sapphires of the purest color, and yellow diamonds which might turn an Indian Prince's head with envy. There are also some fine examples of the jade-stone, harder than iron, and not often seen out of Eastern lands. A jade vase, and a scarf-pin of beautiful workmanship, are among the collection. As for the bronzes, nothing equal to them has ever been brought to this country before. They were chosen in Paris during the war, and luckily were sent away before communications were stopped. In this department, also, the means of all classes have been studied. There is nothing in the whole store, large or small, which does not display the exercise of a cultivated taste.

Establishments like these are a credit to the City, and deserve all the popularity which rewards their enterprising founders. The new stores which have been lately opened, like those of TIFFANY & Co., LORD & TAYLOR, CONSTABLE & Co., NICOLL & DAVIDSON, and others, are not only an evidence of increasing prosperity in the community, but also prove that the elevating influences of art are not idle. From this point of view alone they merit all the attention which we can bestow upon them.

The European mails have been late this week, but Mr. BRENTANO, of No. 33 Union-square, is among the first to receive the best of their literary contents. The Graphic fully keeps up its old excellence, some of the engravings in the current number being equal to anything yet produced by the newspaper press. The Illustrated London News is also good, and Punch, Nature and the Saturday Review present their usual attractions.

THE TURF.

A Large Attendance and Good Sport at Fleetwood Park—Lady Rose Beats Hiram in Three Straight Heats.

The weather has been surprisingly favorable for racing during the Fall, and yesterday, the second day of Winter, the air was as mild and balmy, and the sunlight as pleasant as in September. Two trots were announced at the Fleetwood Park Course, and nearly all the gentlemen drivers on the road found it convenient to extend their ride to that pleasant track, so that the gathering at the Club-house was unusually large, and many famous trotters were carefully blanketed, and placed in waiting under the commodious sheds.

Two trots were advertised to come off, but one, it seems, was trotted privately on Thursday. The horses engaged were JOHN ROGERS' b. c. Harry Schuyler and A. ODELL'S br. m. Teaser, the match being for $500. Teaser distanced Harry Schuyler in the first heat, the time being 2:32.

The race yesterday was for a purse and stake of $400, mile heats, best three in five, and JOHN LOVETT'S b. m. Lady Rose, Mr. BELLENGER'S b. g. Hiram, and Mr. WHIPPLE'S ch. m. Angeline were in. The betting at first was $100 on Angeline to $65 on the other two, and then Angeline was drawn and the odds were laid on Lady Rose at the rate of $100 to $60, although she trotted to wagon and Hiram in harness.

In the first heat Lady Rose led all through by three or four lengths, and won at the finish by three lengths in 2:36. The second heat was more closely contested, Hiram heading the Lady at the half-mile pole, but he soon broke, the Lady took the lead again and beat him four lengths in 2:36¾. In the third and last heat Hiram acted very badly, breaking on the first turn again at the half-mile pole and at the head of the stretch. Lady Rose led all the way and won by three lengths. Time—2:37½. The following is the

The Caisson of the East River Bridge on Fire—The Works Damaged to the Extent of $20,000.

At a late hour on Thursday night, fire was discovered in Chamber No. 2 of the East River Bridge, Brooklyn, caused, it is supposed, by a spark from a candle in the hands of one of the workmen coming in contact with the oakum with which the seams of the wood-work are caulked. Information of the fact was at once sent to Chief Engineer KINGSLEY, who on repairing to the spot ordered the caisson to be filled with steam, but at the same time forbade the men making any communication to the Fire Department of the city. These orders were strictly obeyed, and every effort was made to extinguish the flames, but without success, for although apparently suppressed, they kept reappearing at short intervals during the entire night, until between 9 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning, seeing that the efforts of his force had been without the desired effect, the Engineer communicated with the city Fire Department, and in a few minutes had their entire strength at his disposal. By this time, however, such progress had the flames made that fears were entertained that the entire structure, worth about $1,000,000, would be destroyed, and it was not until 3 o'clock in the afternoon that confidence was restored, and that was after the entire apartment had been filled with water. In the meantime a large force of men from the Navy-yard, under the command of Mr. HENRY ARMSTRONG, in conjunction with a number of steamers on the river, had been constantly employed in pouring water down the shaft at the rate of 40,000,000 gallons per hour. The difficulty about the matter was that while the flames were at the top of the caisson they could only be reached by filling the entire structure with water, and thus driving the air out, submerging the entire work. It was, of course, impossible for the men to go down into the pit, for such it was, and throw water directly upon the ignited timber. Another difficulty was experienced in the sudden expulsion of air, it being a question whether a collapse would not follow upon it, caused by the pressure from the outside. In the course of time, however, all these difficulties solved themselves, and at 4 o'clock the flames were extinguished and the work saved. As the chamber was and is now filled with water, it was of course impossible to ascertain the amount of damage actually done, but the engineers on the spot stated that it could not possibly fall short of $20,000.

This is the fifth fire that has broken out since the work was commenced, and the danger from that element keeps constantly increasing as the caisson approaches completion. Indeed the quality of the air at the present time is such that it is next to impossible to blow out a candle; even a spark will relight it.

To make all things safe, Mr. KINGSLEY has determined to allow the water now in the structure to remain there until Monday morning, when the process of pumping it out will be commenced.

The Working Men's Union—A Strike of the Crispins.

The regular meeting of the Working Men's Union was held at No. 327 Bowery, last evening. The Committee appointed to wait on the Commissioners of Charities reported that the building to which reference was made was contracted for before the Eight-hour law was passed by the Legislature, and they could not abrogate their contracts for that work, but that all labor contracted for in the future would be done under the Eight-hour law. The report was received. The delegate from the Tailors reported the strike as still continuing. A law-suit was referred to by the delegate, in which a man by the name of BLISSERT was summoned before Justice COX for an assault on an employer. The delegate said that they found that BLISSERT was in a tight place, so they got a member of the organization, who had recently been elected to office, to go on the bench with Justice COX, and the result was that BLISSERT was discharged. He said that there was another case, in which an employer was the assailant, and an attempt would be made to send him up on the Island, and thereby his business would be broken up.

Mr. NELSON W. YOUNG, the Chairman, stated that as he was the party referred to by the previous speaker he would say that the only influence he used with the Judge was to convince him that most of the trouble between working men was caused by middle men. The result was the discharge of BLISSERT.

The Varnishers and Polishers reported business brisk, and no men out of employment. The Crispins reported that the employers were determined to stop work on Monday next, in order to disrupt the organization. The Joint Council have determined to resist this action to the utmost. There are 3,000 or 4,000 hands employed on team work alone. It was stated that thirty or forty bosses on Monday next, offer the alternative of giving up Crispinism or go on the street. They had determined to keep Crispinism and go on the street, if necessary.

Another Crispin reported that the bosses had determined to cut down wages next week. One man was building a large factory outside the City, in which he was going to employ Chinamen. This man's name was WHITEHOUSE, with whom the Crispins had had trouble in regard to the prison contract system. The organization were prepared for such a movement on the part of the bosses, whether to cut down wages or to employ coolie workmen.

It was suggested that the Working Men's Union visit the various organizations represented here, and exhort them to some energetic action by speeches, and in any other way that may be suggested. The suggestion was put in the form of a motion, and carried.

The moral and financial aid of the Union was tendered the Crispins, in case they should want money to sustain them in the coming strike. The Union pledged all the moral aid required. A delegate stated that the lock-out would commence on Monday or Tuesday, as orders had been given to finish all work on Saturday night, and now was the time for the Union to declare that it was in sympathy with the Crispins. They ask no increase of wages, but the determination of the bosses was to disrupt the organization.

Mr. YOUNG stated that the movement against the Crispins was not the only one, but that the tailors would next be taken in hand, and there was a united determination among the employers to adopt, at this season of the year, measures which would look to the disruption of these organizations. He urged that prompt action be taken by the delegates to meet this attack at the outset, and present a firm front. Labor organizations in other cities had been crushed out, but if earnest action was taken now, the combinations of the employers would be frustrated.

A delegate moved that the Secretary write to the amalgamated carpenters of England for statistics, in order to refute the arguments to be presented to the Legislature in favor of prison labor. The motion was carried.

It was moved that a special committee be appointed to co-operate with the Crispins in seeking to allay any difficulties that may arise between laborer and employer. The motion was carried and the Committee on Arbitration was appointed to perform that duty.

The Union then adjourned.

Harper's Weekly is unusually good this week. There are many original illustrations in it of very striking merit—notably, a double-page one with "War Time in Bavaria" as its subject. It is a drawing of great power and originality, and ought to be preserved among the records of the momentous period through which we are passing. Harper's Bazar is also full of attractions, and must be welcome in every home.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

CHARLES THOMAS, a clerk in the wholesale store of A. T. STEWART & Co., at No. 274 Broadway, was arrested yesterday morning, as he was leaving the premises with a shawl, valued at $8, in his possession. CHARLES immediately confessed that he had stolen twenty-seven shawls, at different times during the month of November, the aggregate value of the property taken being nearly $250. The prisoner was arraigned before Justice HOGAN at the Tombs and held for petit larceny, as the dates of the previous larcenies could not be specified by the complainant, Mr. WILLIAM WILDE, superintendent of the shawl department.

At the monthly meeting of the County Woman's Suffrage Society, yesterday afternoon, at the parlors of the Association, Broadway, corner of Sixteenth-street, Mrs. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON, chairwoman of a committee appointed to wait on United States Congressmen and State Senators to ascertain their views in regard to woman suffrage, reported that the Committee had personally interviewed ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT, WM. M. ROBERTS, SAMUEL S. COX, SMITH ELY, Jr., JAMES BROOKS, and FERNANDO WOOD, United States Congressmen, and found three in favor of the movement. Three were not opposed, but were not prepared to declare publicly in its favor. Of the State Senators, only two were seen, and they required more time before committing themselves. The other four were not to be found in their offices at any hour of the day or any day of the week. To these notes had been sent, which yet remained unanswered.

The eleventh anniversary of the death of JOHN BROWN was celebrated, last evening, at Shiloh Presbyterian Church, (colored,) at the corner of Prince and Marion streets. Among the assemblage, which was large, were many white ladies and gentlemen, drawn thither by the prospect of the advent of several distinguished speakers. The services were opened by Rev. H. H. GARNET, the pastor, who reviewed, step by step, the career of JOHN BROWN in the anti-slavery cause, until the moment of his execution. He was followed by T. S. W. TITUS, (who read BROWN'S last speech,) Rev. Mr. BUTLER, Mr. POWELL and others.

Detectives EUSTACE WOOLDRIDGE and TILLY arrested JOHN GRADY, a jewelry-peddler, a well-known character to the Police, upon a charge of stealing a case of silver watches worth $1,500, from a trunk belonging to ISAAC BLERANE, of No. 260 South-street, which was standing in front of the store at the time the theft was committed. The only evidence yet obtained against GRADY is the fact that he sold one of the watches to Mr. SAUER, of No. 21 John-street, and the prisoner, being arraigned, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, was remanded by Judge SHANDLEY to Police Head-quarters to give the detectives an opportunity to obtain further proofs.

At the last meeting of the Board of Managers of the American Bible Society, grants of books were made to the Missionary Society of Friends, in Washington; Presbyterian Committee of Home Missions; Military Post Library Association, N. Y.; American Seamen's Friend Society; and Chinese Testaments for Chinamen at North Adams. The whole number of volumes granted is 4,531, and $2,000 were appropriated for the employment of Bible distributors among the Chinamen on the Pacific coast.

The ladies of the congregation of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Fifth-avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets, Revs. Drs. HOWLAND and CONRAD, rectors, are preparing for a Fair, to take place this Winter, in aid of the fund necessary to liquidate the indebtedness occasioned by the recent improvement made in the church edifice.

Prof. AUSTIN FLINT, Jr., delivered the introductory lecture of a series on Physiology, last evening, at Association Hall, Twenty-third-street and Fourth-avenue, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. The general structure of the human body, organic wear and tear, dietetics and digestion were the subjects which he passed under review. His audience was instructed and delighted.

Attorney-General AKERMAN visited the Federal building, in Chambers-street, yesterday morning, for the purpose of seeing District-Attorney DAVIS and Marshal SHARPE. He held a long consultation with the latter official in relation, as was reported, to certain Cuban expeditions which, it is said, are being fitted out to leave this port.

For several months the small-pox has prevailed in Newark, though not to a very alarming degree. The Board of Health found it necessary a few weeks ago to call the attention of physicians to the fine for not reporting all cases of this disease to the Board. Within a few days the malady has seemed to be on the increase, and thirty cases are known to exist at present. Extra precautions against the spread of the disease are called for, as new cases are daily being reported.

The mystery attending the fatal shooting of PATRICK VAUGHAN, alias George Johnson, was deepened yesterday by the discovery that the names and addresses given to the hospital surgeon by the men who brought the deceased to him were purely fictitious. Coroner SCHIRMER will endeavor to ascertain the truth in the case.

ISRAEL WOOD, the bar-keeper who shot himself at No. 178 South-street, on Thursday afternoon, died yesterday at the Park Hospital. It has been ascertained that the deceased had been drinking to excessive for some time, and was partially deranged in consequence. An inquest will be held today by Coroner ROLLINS at No. 75 Third-avenue, where the remains were removed.

Mr. and Mrs. JOHN MORTIMER gave a reception, last evening, at their residence, No. 10 West Thirty-second-street, to the young ladies and gentlemen connected with the Fifth-avenue Presbyterian Church, of which Rev. Dr. JOHN HALL is the pastor. The gathering was very select and recherché, and the evening was spent in dancing and social amusements.

The steam-boat Drew, of the People's line, which left New-York on Thursday night, at 6 o'clock, with passengers and freight, when off Polopel Island, met with an accident to her machinery, and was towed in to Newburg. The steamer St. John, of the same line, will be put on in her place today.

A Masonic social was given by Atlas Lodge, No. 316, F. and A. M., at their rooms, No. 946 Broadway, last evening. A lecture, entitled "Eastern Star," was delivered by HERMAN G. CARTER, and choice selections of music by H. MILLARD were given with fine effect.

The Board of Excise yesterday passed a resolution directing the Attorney of the Board to prosecute all parties who have failed to comply with the requirements of the Excise law by omitting to take out licenses.

A general alarm was sent out last night from the Fifteenth Precinct that counterfeit $20s on the Merchants' National Bank have been discovered.

The flags on the City Hall were at half-mast yesterday as a mark of respect to Senator BLOOD, whose funeral took place yesterday.

BROOKLYN.

FENTON LAWLER died at the Long Island College yesterday of injuries which he received in the Brooklyn lumber-yard on Monday last. The Coroner held an inquest.

There were four new cases of small-pox discovered in the Sixteenth Ward yesterday. It is believed by the Health Officer that the disease will not be permitted to spread beyond that locality. Some complaints were lodged with the Mayor yesterday against those engaged in moving the sufferers to the hospital at Flatbush, but Dr. COCHRAN says that all that can be done under the circumstances to alleviate the pain of the sufferers will be done.

JOHN BROUGHTON, the keeper of the colored gambling saloon at the corner of Fulton and Bond streets, which was seized on the night of Saturday last, was yesterday bound in $250, by Justice BUCKLEY, to keep the peace for one year. In view of the fact it may be noted that while the poor negroes were disturbed in their ten-cent game of bluff, there were dozens of well-known flash gambling houses around the Police Head-quarters, doing a slashing business with impunity.

G. W. MALMBERG, a poorly-shod and still more poorly-clothed member of the dramatic fraternity, whose last engagement was at the "Olympic," was yesterday taken into custody by Detective POWERS, for carrying off, without leave, a pair of shoes from the store of L. B. SONDHEIM, of Fulton-street.

LONG ISLAND.

Yesterday morning a well-dressed and respectable appearing woman was arrested by Officer SAMMIS, as she was about entering the cars for New-York, at Babylon. It seems that she had been in the employment of Mr. JOHN LUX, of that village, and had left that morning; but before taking her final departure, managed to steal a gold watch and chain, valued at $150, belonging to Mrs. LUX. It was found upon her person. The loss of the watch was not discovered until a few minutes before the train arrived.

On Thursday evening a showman by the name of JONES hired the new M. E. Church at East Setauck for the purpose of exhibiting some panoramic views. At the close of the exhibition he said to the trustees that, as it was rather late, he would settle in the morning. Early in the morning the showman packed up and started for Holdbrook Station, forgetting to pay the rent of the church. The constable was dispatched after him, and he was overhauled just as he was taking the train.

NEW-JERSEY.

The stables of MICHAEL DOLAN, a contractor on the West Line Railroad, at Millington, N. J., were burned with their contents, Thursday night. Twelve horses, a large quantity of single and double harness, a fine carriage and robe, and a large number of tools were destroyed. The loss will amount to fully $5,000, on which there is no insurance. The conflagration was undoubtedly the result of carelessness.

JOHN GRATZ, of Metuchin, was killed at Menlo Park, on the New-Jersey Railroad, on Thursday evening. He was walking on the track, and in attempting to step out of the way of an approaching train, was run over by a train coming from the opposite direction.

The Lincoln Division Sons of Temperance, at Elizabeth, dedicated their new Hall on Thursday night. Several other Divisions were represented at the dedication, and a grand time was enjoyed.

THOMAS LAFON, of Newark, who was two years ago imprisoned for manslaughter, and pardoned out, is again in trouble. He was before the Police Court yesterday morning for fighting, and was fined for the offense.

ARMY AND NAVY RECORD.

I'll fight it out on this line if it takes all Summer," said President GRANT. So says JAMES PYLE, who wages war upon all adulterated Soaps. Mr. PYLE makes a strictly pure article, and there is no doubt his "O. K." Soap is the cheapest in the end. The amount of labor and clothing saved by its use in a family is no small item. Sold by all grocers.
